

Small Loan Companies Hurt By Arkansas Interest Limit

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

"Every little man needs $50 sometime in his life." A. C. Gannaway, seventyish, owner of the Central Loan and Investment Company, stared out the window onto the steamy streets of Little Rock.

The fan on the floor stirred the 94-degree air about his legs.

"The little fellow has as much right to credit as the big man. This 10% thing is a tremendous hardship on the people of Arkansas."

"The little fellow has to have cold-blooded collateral to get a bank loan. Besides, he can't go in there in his overalls. He isn't comfortable in there. He'd rather come here in his work clothes."

"A lot of little fellows are going to lose a friend when we close our doors."

The long, narrow, high-ceilinged office was silent. The telephone was still. No one came, and no one left. Only the muted chatter of a typewriter echoed in the back room.

"We've taken no new customers," Virginia-bred, sport-shirted A. C. Gannaway explained.

"Can't Cut All The Time"

"You can't properly operate a business by cutting down on it all the time."

"But we're having a dickens of a time."

"We can't make money. So we have two alternatives: several of us must consolidate, or we'll have to go into mortgage loans on real estate."

Prior to the Supreme Court's strict interpretation of the 10% limitation in the constitution, Gannaway required his borrowers to purchase in installments an investment certificate equal to the amount of their loan, pledging the certificate as security for their loans.

In 1954, the court tossed out the investment certificate device as usurious.

"We were getting along fine until then," Gannaway explained.

Would you change the constitution to remove the 10% limit, Mr. Gannaway?

"No. I don't think it should be changed. Some people have no more heart than that sidewalk out there. They would take the little fellow. Some loan sharks will never let you out once they get you in."

"I don't think the little man should have to pay more than 10%. Let the constitution stand, but let the investment certificate stand."

Loan Man Urges Amendment

Down the street at 7th and Main, J. H. Cottrell Jr. had a different solution.

President of the United Loan and Investment Co., Cottrell is a five-term member of the Arkansas House of Representatives.

"The only remedy is to concentrate on a constitutional amendment," Cottrell said. "A percentage limit should not be a matter for the constitution. What is a fair rate of interest today might not be fair tomorrow."

What would be fair today, Mr. Cottrell?

"We need a minimum of $10 a hundred, or 20%. Before the court acted, we operated many years on $10 a hundred, using the investment certificate plan."

"Why, it costs us $8 to make a loan, and on a $100 loan, that would take 15% interest."

"Today, we can charge only $5.41 a hundred. That's wholly inadequate."

"Do you know the most that I could charge you for, say, $100 for a month? Eighty-three cents. That's all."

Suggests Sliding Scale

"We should have a sliding scale. How about $12 a hundred (24%) for $100 to $300; $10 a hundred for $300 to $800; $8 a hundred for $800 to about $2,500, and $5 would be all right for anything over $2,500."

"You've got to remember that it costs as much to make a $100 loan as a $10,000 loan."

(According to an amended version of Nebraska's installment loan act, effective Oct. 19, charges are permitted up to 30% on the first $300, 24% on the next $299, 18% on the next $500, and 12% on everything over $1,000.)

Arkansas banks "won't take the rank-and-file," Cottrell declared. "They carefully screen them. They take the cream of the crop."

As a result, "there is no place for the average working man to go," he continued.

"Arkansas is loaded with hip-pocket operators. They play the old Army game — loan you $10, you give me $12 at payday. They give you $20 and want $25 back. Why, the interest figures into hundreds of percent."

Following enactment of the 1951 small loan law, 62 offices of 12 leading national finance company chains were opened in Arkansas.

During the law's single year of operation, 30,025 individual loans were processed for a total of $8,523,965.71. The 62 national chain offices were closed when the court threw out the act.

The United Loan office was quiet: no phone calls; nobody came, no one left.

Will there be small loan companies here in three or four years, Mr. Cottrell?

"No. Not unless this is changed, there won't."

FOURTH IN SERIES

Arkansas permits a maximum rate of 10% simple interest per year on contracts negotiated within its borders.

By comparison, Nebraska law allows a maximum interest charge of 36% on cash loans—it will be 30% as of Oct. 19 — and charges equivalent to 24% simple interest on time-sales agreements, or purchase of merchandise on credit.

In order to determine the effect of the 10% limit on Arkansas and its economy, on the public, banks, merchants, automobile dealers and small loan companies, The Star interviewed 31 persons during four days in Little Rock.

This is the fourth of six stories.

SEN. RUSSILLO OFFERED CREDIT ASSN. POSITION

—AIDES REPORT TO JFK—

Viet Nam Fight Could End In '65

Washington (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor told President Kennedy Wednesday they believe the need for major American involvement in South Viet Nam's anti-Communist guerrilla war will be ended by December 1965.

The White House said McNamara and Taylor, just back from an on-the-spot inspection tour of South Viet Nam, are convinced that the Communist Viet Cong can be licked by that time or, failing that, the security forces of the Vietnamese government will be able by then to suppress the Communist guerrillas without outside assistance.

In a five-point statement of American policy, the White House said that repressive actions against Vietnamese Buddhists by the government of Ngo Dinh Diem "have not yet significantly affected the military effort."

Adverse

But the statement said there could be no adverse effect in the future.

"The political situation in South Viet Nam remains deeply serious," the statement said. "The United States has made clear its continuing opposition to any repressive actions."

In addition to reporting "their judgment that the major part of the U.S. military task (in Viet Nam) can be completed by the end of 1965," McNamara and Taylor said that 1,000 American military personnel probably can be withdrawn from South Viet Nam by the end of this year. These would be personnel used to train Vietnamese troops.

Kennedy approved the policy statement on the basis of recommendations received from McNamara, Taylor and Henry Cabot Lodge, the U.S. ambassador in Saigon.

The White House said McNamara and Taylor gave Kennedy and, later in the day, the full National Security Council, a report that "included a number of classified findings and recommendations."

It said these would "be the subject of further review and action."

Endorsed

The basic presentation made by the defense secretary and the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff was unanimously endorsed by the security council, the statement said.

The security of South Viet Nam was labeled in the policy document as "a major interest of the United States and of other free nations."

And it said this country would continue to work with the people and the government there to "deny this country to Communism" and suppress the Viet Cong.

The military program in South Viet Nam has made progress, the White House said, "and is sound in principle, though improvements are being energetically sought."

It added that major U.S. assistance in support of the military effort would be needed "only until the insurgency has been suppressed or until the national security forces of the government of South Viet Nam are capable of suppressing it."

It was at this point that the statement reported the judgment of McNamara and Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that major American involvement in military operations could be completed by the end of 1965.

However, the statement said that even after that date, "there may be a continuing requirement for a limited number of U.S. training personnel."

Another major point of the document was a declaration that to keep South Viet Nam out of Communist hands "is the central objective of our policy" in that country.

Special Session Question Posed

SEN. CARPENTER SUGGESTS PREJUDICE IS POSSIBLE

By DON WALTON and BETTY PERSON

Sen. Michael Russillo of Omaha, chairman of the special credit finance legislative committee, has been offered an executive post with the Nebraska Consumer Credit Assn. and will make a decision following adjournment of the special legislative session.

Russillo was reached by telephone at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles, where he is attending sessions of the National Consumer Credit Assn.

In reply to questioning, Russillo said he was offered the position "two or three weeks ago" by Sen. F. O. Gottschalk of Columbus, president of the Nebraska consumer credit organization.

Also Member

Gottschalk is also a member of the special 7-man committee assigned the task of preparing credit finance legislation for consideration by the special session due to be called to open Oct. 21.

The NCCA is a trade organization of Nebraska installment sales and installment loan companies.

Russillo has been offered the post of executive vice president, a position vacated Oct. 1 by Max Denney, now executive vice president of the American Finance Conference.

Denney, whose post with NCCA involved lobbying at the Legislature, was also at the Biltmore in Los Angeles.

Information From Terry
Russillo was reached by phone after Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff told newsmen that he had learned that the Omaha lawmaker was "being considered" for the post vacated by Denney.

"I have no suggestions as to what Senator Russillo should do," Carpenter said, "but he ought to make some statement to clear the record before we meet next week."

"If he is going to accept it, it seems he will be in no position to be unprejudiced in continuing as chairman of the special committee," the Scottsbluff lawmaker declared.

Explosion In Birmingham Ruins Store

Birmingham, Ala. (UPI)—A fire and explosion demolished a food store operated by a white man in a Negro neighborhood of this racially-troubled city Wednesday night. No injuries were reported.

A crowd of about 50 Negroes gathered near the shattered and burning two-story "Discount Meat Center," but it remained orderly.

Scores of police officers, some carrying sub-machine guns, surrounded the area.

Fire department officials said the explosion was not caused by dynamite, they said the blast was touched off by a fire, apparently intentionally started. A gasoline can was found inside the ruins of the brick structure.

A Negro leader earlier Wednesday had called the state's investigation of racial bombings here a "sham," and warned that only a major breakthrough in the case could head off new demonstrations by Negroes.

Charges of illegal possession of dynamite—a misdemeanor punishable by a $100 fine and 180 days in jail—were filed Tuesday against three white men.

The bombing of a Negro church Sept. 15 claimed the lives of four Negro girls.

The threat of new demonstrations was raised by Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, who said that "in the absence of definite progress (in the bombing investigation) . . . there is no alternative to resumption of non-violent direct action by the Negro community."

The three white men charged with possession of dynamite are R. E. Chambliss, 59, Charles Cagle, 22, and John Hall, 36. They are scheduled to be tried in recorder's court next Tuesday. All three are free on bond.

Pro-Ben Bella Troops Seal Off Kabylie Area

Algiers (AP)—Troops backing President Ahmed Ben Bella sealed off the dissident Kabylie area Wednesday and Ben Bella's chief political aide called for creation of vigilante committees to combat the revolt.

Not a shot has been reported fired since Algerian Berbers openly defied the government and set up military lines on the rugged mountains east of Algiers, with China-made field guns from the French-Algerian war among their weapons.

But, thousands of words of communiques and proclamations poured from each side, repeating slogans and accusations. The Algiers radio played Arab military marches.

Truckloads of steel-helmeted government troops converged on the approaches to the mountains.

Vigilantes
The ruling Front of National Liberation was ordered by its chief organizer, Hadj Ben Alla, to form vigilante committees in every town and hamlet.

"If necessary, they will fight alongside our soldiers," Ben Alla said.

The FLN also called for special powers for Ben Bella to stem the uprising. The party motion asked the national assembly to vote the powers for Ben Bella at an emergency session Thursday. There was little doubt that the rubber stamp will follow the decision of the ruling party.

Uncontested

In practice, Ben Bella has had full and uncontested powers without an emergency vote. The proposed measure was seen as a psychological move.

Berber leaders toured mountain hamlets and called on peasants to take up a guerrilla fight against the government.

Crowds of turbaned men applauded. Hocine Ait Ahmed, who is emerging as the political chief of the revolt, told some 2,000 Berbers in the village of Arba Les Oucifs:

"Men and women, we shall fight as guerrillas. Napoleon was defeated in Russia, Ben Bella will be defeated in Kabylie."

Col. Mohand Ou El Hadi, the Berber military chieftain, vowed to resist "until the last drop of blood." The elderly warrior said:

"We have decided to sacrifice our last moments to achieve the triumph of justice, liberty and human dignity."

But there was no atmosphere of crisis in the capital.

Workers were whitewashing the walls of buildings under government instructions to "make the city white" before the Nov. 1 anniversary of the independence rising against France in 1954.

Ben Bella said he still intends to go to New York next week to address the U.N. General Assembly.

His defense minister, Col. Houari Boumedienne, is in Moscow to discuss a Soviet loan.

Ugly Demonstrations Give Some Columbus Kids 'Kicks'

By GENE BUDIG

Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Columbus — This is an average Nebraska community. It thrives on agriculture and solid citizens.

And yet, something strange happened. Columbus suddenly became the scene of two ugly, almost violent, demonstrations.

The reason? "Kicks, man, kicks," explained one teenager, who said he took part in the demonstrations at the Bible Baptist Church.

A Real Burg?

Sipping on a root beer at the local A & W, he spoke freely. "This is a real burg, man. Like nothing ever happens. A bunch of the guys fixed that, I guess."

He admitted that he did not know the Rev. George Swiney.

"I didn't even know what he looked like," he related. "Neither did most of the other guys there. It didn't matter at the time."

Reportedly, the trouble all started after the minister and his son, Loren, were charged with child stealing.

Also charged was a parishioner, Harold Brinkman, who left home with four of his wife's children from a previous marriage.

Still Missing

The parishioner has not returned.

"I don't know the preacher, but my folks say he's a nut of some kind," said another youth, wearing levis and a white shirt.

He related, "Dad says Swiney thinks he's the voice of God, or something like that. Now you can't tell me anybody who thinks that way is well."

He also admitted that he had never met the churchman.

Still another teenager at the prep hangout said, "Rev. Swiney wouldn't let new people in the community join his church. He kept the membership closed. A friend of ours tried to join once."

"Hot Heads" Blamed

Point blank, the youth, who said he was not involved in the demonstrations, claimed the trouble came because of "a couple hot heads. It simply got out of hand."

Standing guard in front of the little brick church, one policeman said, "I sure didn't think something like this could happen in Columbus. Birmingham, yes; Columbus, no."

A majority of the authorities at the scene Wednesday night could not explain the sudden outbursts.

However, one of them insisted, "There's more to this than meets the eye. It's more than a bunch of kids out to raise hell. Somebody had a deeper motive."

Wednesday night the church stood in silent darkness. There was no prayer meeting. Nor was there a demonstration as there had been Sunday and Monday nights, when police were forced to use fire hoses and tear gas to break up the crowd.

The area was sealed off Tuesday night, and again Wednesday night. The regular Wednesday night prayer meeting was cancelled, but more than 40 lawmen kept the area closed to traffic.

JFK In Favor Of Wheat Sale, Wants GOP Leadership Okay

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy tentatively has decided to permit the sale of American wheat to Russia but wants Republican leadership approval of the move before acting, an administration spokesman said Wednesday.

Before he announces any such decision, the President is expected to invite GOP leaders of both houses to canvass the situation with him.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has been approached by high government officials to go along. But he said that when the matter was discussed at a party policy meeting Tuesday there was no GOP consensus.

$150 Million
The administration is reported to have been informed that the Soviets are willing to buy $150 million of American wheat for gold. This was some $100 million less than previously had been indicated.

But Leonid Matveev, head of the Soviet grain board and chief negotiator in his nation's $500 million purchase of Canadian wheat, said in Winnipeg, Canada Wednesday that Russia is not likely to buy wheat from the United States.

He confirmed that the Soviet's had held preliminary talks with American grain dealers in Ottawa, but told an interviewer Russia now feels it has enough wheat to last until next summer.

Still Alive
But despite this second Soviet knockdown of a possible wheat deal with America — Soviet Premier Khrushchev said much the same Tuesday — the subject was still very much alive in Washington.

Kennedy was said by a source who asked not to be named to have been told by his advisers that he ought to touch all of the political and diplomatic bases before he announces any decision.

One point that particularly troubles the administration involves the possibility that the Russians might transship some of the American wheat to Cuba — or that some of the grain now in possession of the Soviets might be released by the deal for shipment there.

Any such procedure likely would have wide repercussions in view of the administration's efforts to cut to a minimum free world trade with the Castro regime.

Emphasizing that he was speaking only for himself,

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the conference of all Republican senators, said in an interview he would be willing to support a one-shot, cash sale of wheat.

"We have to be realistic about this situation," Saltonstall said. "The Canadians, the West Germans and the French are selling wheat and flour to the Russians."

More Sales
Informed sources in Bonn and Paris disclosed only Wednesday that both West Germany and France had agreed to sell flour to the Soviets. They reported West German firms will provide 250,000 tons for about $18 million with delivery in March.

Saltonstall said that while he personally could support a one-shot cash sale of wheat he did not believe there ought to be any change in over-all American trade policies without some kind of approval by Congress.

But he said he did not believe the President would need formal congressional authorization for a single transaction.

Dirksen was asked whether there ought to be any policy shift without the approval of Congress. He said he is withholding judgement on the proposed deal until he has investigated all aspects of it.

However, Dirksen's House counterpart, Rep. Charles A. Halleck, R-Ind., raised several questions he said should be answered before any wheat is sold to Russia.

In a statement, the minority leader asked whether Kennedy would make the sale contingent upon the removal of Soviet troops from Cuba.

Guarantees?
He also asked whether the government's export subsidy of wheat would be provided and what guarantees "have been devised that can prevent the Soviet Union from reselling such American-subsidized wheat to Cuba and even to North Viet Nam?"

The administration was represented as deeply interested in lessening the "inevitable political static," which Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, predicted will stem from the proposed transaction.

Not all of this is coming from Republicans. Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., has called wheat a strategic commodity and has protested any sale of grain to the Soviets would be in violation of congressional directives.

Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, and Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., also have voiced protests.

Rangoon, Burma (AP) — Seventy per cent of Rangoon's shops are closed in protest against the revolutionary government's income tax policy. Under new regulations shopkeepers are required to maintain up to 10 prescribed forms and registers. Retailers claim half their time will be spent keeping the forms in order.

Medics: Reds Have Control Of Defector

Berlin (AP) — Six Western medical specialists agreed Wednesday that the East German Communists have some sort of hold on Capt. Alfred Svenson, who defected to East Germany last May.

The doctors, however, would not speculate on the method the Reds were using to make the 31-year-old soldier from Scranton, Pa., pliable and contradict himself.

They said it could be a wide range of things such as habit forming drugs. A relative living behind the Iron Curtain, fear of imprisonment if he came back to the West, or alcohol. Svenson was born in Lithuania and went to the United States as a child.

Opinion
The doctors were asked to give their opinion after they had listened to recordings of an interview Svenson gave to Reuters News Agency last Sept. 2 and an interview with American reporters two days ago. They agreed but asked that their identity be withheld.

Svenson made contact with a Reuters reporter, Jack Altmann, in East Berlin. Bleeding from a cut at the mouth, Svenson said he was being held in East Berlin against his will.

He told Altmann he suffered the injuries in a beating by border guards who caught him trying to get to West Berlin. He said he had not detected but was dragged and could not remember how he got to East Germany. Svenson said he was trying to contact the U.S. military mission and wanted to return to the West.

Two days ago, in an interview arranged by the East German Foreign Office nearly a month after Svenson's contact with the British newspaper, Reuters said the report by Reuters was "untrue and absurd."

Svenson insisted he could not remember what he told Altmann but that whatever he said was untrue. He said he had no desire to return to the West.

This reporter, as well as two other Westerners present, felt that Svenson was under heavy sedation. His speech was slurred and the pupils of his eyes were dilated.

No Drug
The doctors said there was no drug which could have made Svenson react and contradict himself in the manner he did while he was conscious.

Dilated pupils and his other behavior could be caused by drugs, anxiety or fatigue, they said.

A month ago, for example, he continually referred to East Germany. "Two days ago he always said 'German Democratic Republic' — the communist name."

"There is no doubt, after listening to the two interviews, that he is a very confused individual," one doctor said.

Drunk
Witnesses who saw him just before he crossed to East Germany in May said he was drunk.

Russian Need Direct Factor In Board Of Trade Operation

By WILLIAM SHAFFER
Chicago (AP) — Russia needs wheat and—whether or not the United States sells to her—Russia's need is a direct factor in the intricate operations of Chicago's Board of Trade.

Speculation on whether U.S. grain interests will directly supply Soviet needs is secondary to recent roller-coaster deviations in the wheat futures market.

The reason? Russia has been a supplier of wheat on the world market. Russia has been competing with U.S. interests. Now Russia is a buyer and world supplies are smaller. Thus wheat demand is up while supplies are down.

Higher
In Chicago this means wheat futures are as much as 24 cents a bushel higher Wednesday than on Sept. 3.

Should Russia buy here, a second factor enters the market: Where will this country obtain the wheat? Contradictory reports say supplies will come from government-owned surpluses. If true, the impact of the transaction on the open market will be less than if individual suppliers bid for the business. Kennedy administration sources have said price and other details would be left to private concerns.

Let's assume a large commercial firm X bid and received the contract for as much as 200 million bushels of the bread grain. Firm X may own just 40 million bushels. It must turn to the board of trade.

Enters Pit
Firm X enters the wheat pit, asking to buy 60 million bushels for delivery in, say, December. Hordes of brokers representing selling interests crowd the wheat pit, flicking precise hand signals indicating their asking prices.

If you enter the market at this point with just money, you quickly buy as many December wheat futures as you can. Or, rather, your broker buys, since at this point you're a mere spectator.

Let's say your man buys 10 million bushels at $2.00. You can go to firm X and promise to deliver that much wheat in two months.

Now the fun starts.

Signals
You want your man to sell your wheat at a profit. And firm X wants to buy for as little as possible. Your man signals. Their man signals. The price eases upward as supplies of wheat futures dwindle.

If your hunch and timing were right, you sell at a profit, pay your broker his fees and get out.

But what about the futures you sold?

A future is a function of the cash grain position. Cash grain transactions are hard sales of actual inventories in country elevators or processor's warehouses.

Normally the cash price normally exceeds the futures because elevator operators, farmers' representatives, railroads and insurance companies all want a cut of the dollars paid for getting wheat from the farm to the baker—whether in Jersey City or Moscow.

Your futures are a promise to deliver. Someone buying futures is selling grain. Usually this is a commercial firm and the process is called "hedging"; the buying of grain, then buying and selling of futures contracts to reduce the chance of loss through price changes of the grain already held. A hedger believes futures and cash grain prices will move in parallel courses—largely because the variables on supply and demand (weather, transportation, labor conditions, import-export conditions, etc.) are the same for the farmer as for the speculator and commercial concerns.

The hedger normally is a firm or person who wants to protect his investment in inventories by selling wheat futures at roughly the per-bushel price paid for his stocks. When he sells the processed wheat, he will buy back the futures. He thus operates in both the cash grain and futures markets. A speculator, on the other hand, operates just in futures, at once buying and selling for a hoped-for profit.

Big Loser
Should the hedger have inventories purchased at $2.00 a bushel and find he can get only $1.50 a bushel for his flour, he's a big loser. But if he has hedged properly, he sold futures at $2.00 and can buy them back when he sells his flour. His loss as a processor is offset by his gain as a hedger.

A final factor in the speculation about the U.S.-Russian wheat deal is weather. If Russia is unable to obtain the wheat it needs from, say, Canada before Canadian harvests are over for the winter, the U.S. position is greatly enhanced.

With enormous supplies of wheat both in and out of government ownership, this country's wheat picture is rosy, speculators say. If the government sells its surpluses, these may soon be replaced by new surpluses from the farms. And if the government turns the contract loose to private firms, the wheat market will steam ahead even further.

Sentiment In Support Of Wheat Sale To Soviet Union Apparently Growing

By The Associated Press
Sentiment in favor of selling U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union appears to be increasing in wheat-growing areas.

However, some objections are being raised. Humanitarian reasons figure in the favorable opinions as well as the possibilities of profit and of reducing the vast wheat surplus.

But some question the desirability of helping the Communist system, which has vowed to overcome the United States.

On Verge
Although the Soviet Union has not asked officially to buy U.S. wheat, President Kennedy was reported on the verge of approving such a deal.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman reported that private traders estimate 200 million bushels of wheat could be sold to Russia for $300 million.

An Associated Press sampling of opinion among farmers, millers and exporters and their organizations indicated a majority would welcome the sale.

"I think that if they pay us for it, we should sell to them," said John Vanier, president of the Western Star Milling Co., Salina, Kan. "I think that trade is the one thing that will make people understand each other."

John Hirsch, an executive of Harvey Grain, Inc., Wichita, Kan., called the idea "a very bad mistake."

"We will be perpetuating a type of government bent on destroying us. There's nothing better to do it with than food."

The Iowa Farm Bureau took the stand that "if the administration sees no hazards, the sale of wheat and other farm commodities should be negotiated at world prices."

Reasonable
A joint statement by presidents of the Farmers Union in North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Minnesota and Wisconsin said that since the Soviet Union becomes a signatory of the International Wheat Agreement with the 1963 crop year it would be reasonable to explore the possibilities of sale of wheat for dollars or gold.

C. H. Kreader, executive secretary of the Nebraska Wheat Growers Association, mentioned these reasons why the organization favors selling wheat to the Soviets: "It's a cash market, the United States has an excess of wheat it has not been able to dispose of, and it would help even up balance of payments between countries."

The Iowa Farmers Union said it favors such a deal "because no one with a clear conscience could permit people to go hungry. And this would help secure adequate income for American farm families."

Security
Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said that while there are some short-term economic gains to be realized, "the main question is whether they will advance the best interest and security of the United States."

"I'm in favor of it if the trade is a cash proposition," commented Murray Ross, president of Ross Industries, Newton, Kan. "I've heard very little opposition."

Lancaster Team Wins Land Judging Contest

... Lincolnite Tops 4-H Individuals

Mead — Lincoln and Lancaster County fared well Wednesday in the area II land judging contest held at the University of Nebraska experimental station at Mead.

Winners will be eligible for the state contest, to be held at Norfolk Oct. 19. State winners will enter the national contest, slated in Oklahoma City next May.

First, second and third place teams in FFA and 4-H divisions can attend the state contest.

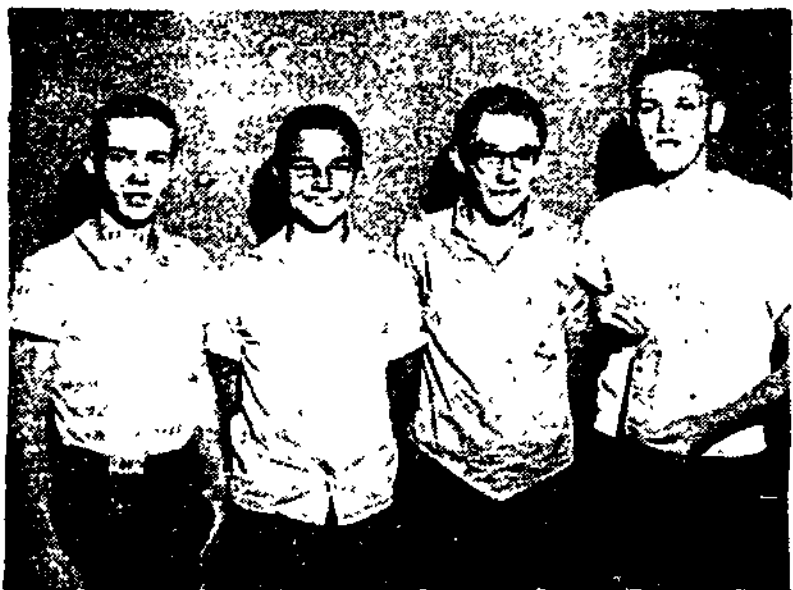

Those placing in Wednesday's contest:

FFA Individuals — Terry Reck, Palmyra, first; Richard Bond, Nebraska City, second; Keith Zeilinger, David City, third; Mike Daharsh, Papillion, fourth; and Richard Otoe, David City, fifth.

Two Men Found Guilty In Termite Fraud Case

Two Springfield, Mo., men — Jay and Kenneth Jarrett — were found guilty by a Lancaster District Court jury of obtaining money by false pretenses.

They were charged in connection with a fraudulent termite extermination business.

Attorneys for the Jarretts did not present any evidence after a motion for a directed verdict for the defendants failed.

The motion was made by defense attorneys Walter O'Neal and Joseph Krause after the state closed its case.

O'Neal argued that the Jarretts did not obtain money from Mrs. Mildred Birky and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Barringer as the state alleged, but that they obtained only personal checks from them and actually received the money from the bank.

He contended that a personal check is not money. "The state might have proved commission of a crime, but not as Mr. Douglas charges," O'Neal said.

Lancaster County Atty Paul Douglas argued that the individuals were "deprived of money from their accounts by the misrepresentations and false pretenses of the defendants," and thus the charge of obtaining money by false pretenses is proper.

Motion Overruled — Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin overruled the defense motion, and the defense rested its case.

Earlier, George Preece, president of Mid-State Pest Control Inc., testified for the state that he had examined both the properties of the Barringers and Mrs. Birky and found no evidence of termites or damage which could have been done by termites or wood-destroying insects.

Two Harvard residents testified.

Jill St. John Asks Divorce; Filmdom Marriages 'Often'

Los Angeles (AP) — Red-haired actress Jill St. John, who once admitted Hollywood marriages were "shorter and often," filed for divorce Wednesday from Woolworth heir Lance Reventlow.

Miss St. John, 23, charged Reventlow, 27, with extreme cruelty.

After filing for separate maintenance from Reventlow last year, the actress said her career and his auto racing interests pulled them apart.

'Wrong Count' Blamed For Escape Of Two Pen Inmates

A "wrong count" was blamed by State Penitentiary Warden Maurice Sigler Wednesday for the escape Tuesday evening of two inmates of the prison.

The escape went undetected until a second check later determined the men were not in their beds.

Sigler identified the men as Melton Schooler, 30, of Dakota City, who was serving a 15-year-term for robbery in Dakota County, and Vincent Lowrie, 29, of Omaha, who was serving a three-year term for burglary in Lancaster County.

Cut Hole In Fence

"They got away sometime after 6 p.m.," said the warden, "sometime between 6 and 7 p.m. would be my judgment. They cut a hole in the fence behind the trusty yard. There is no evidence that they broke out of the dormitory. Their escape was not dis-

Omaha Unknown To Joe Valachi

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., asked hoodlum informer Joseph Valachi whether Valachi had ever been outside New York.

Here was the exchange:

Q—Have you been outside New York?

A—I visited Buffalo and Utica, New York.

Q—The Midwest?

A—I went to Arkansas some years back. I went to the baths. I was in Chicago en route to Arkansas.

Q—Have you ever been in Omaha or Kansas City? Does Cosa Nostra operate in Omaha?

A—Senator, I never heard of Omaha. I never heard of anything in Omaha. In Chicago there is one family. How far they extend I don't know. Now among us I never heard of anything about Omaha.

Q—Kansas City?

A—Kansas City I'd heard of.

Q—That's in Iowa.

A—I've never even heard of Des Moines.

2 Hungarians Flee

Eisenstadt, Austria (UPI) — Two 20-year-old Hungarians escaped to the West by leaping from a moving train near the Austro-Hungarian border and crawling the rest of the way through minefields and barbed wire into Austria, police reported here.

The youths, who asked for political asylum, were hospitalized here for treatment of injuries suffered when they jumped from the train.

Holdrege Man Piloted Copter Down In River

Lampertheim, Germany (UPI) — A U.S. Army helicopter piloted by 1st Lt. Clarence Nelson of Holdrege, Neb., plunged into the Rhine River Tuesday.

One of the 17 persons on board was seriously injured.

The helicopter had just taken off from an air strip near here when the engine backfired and stopped, an Army spokesman said. The craft crashed into the water about 20 feet from shore.

The name of the injured man was not disclosed.

Authorities said he suffered chest injuries. He was taken to the U.S. Army Hospital at Heidelberg.

The other soldiers aboard the craft waded ashore. Several were treated at the hospital for minor injuries and then released, the spokesman said.

Nelson, 25, the co-pilot, 1st Lt. Emerson L. Shelton, 26, of Buckingham, Va., and all 15 enlisted men aboard were attached to the 3rd Armored Cavalry Regiment stationed at Hoppstedten near Kaiserslautern.

Extended Forecast

NEBRASKA: The temperatures for the five-day period, Thursday through Monday, will average three to six degrees above seasonal normals. Cooler in the eastern portion Thursday, warmer Friday and cooler again Sunday and Monday. Normal highs are 68 to 72. Normal lows are 46 to 49. Little or no precipitation is indicated for the period.

Summary Of Conditions

The latest surface map shows a sprawling high over Nebraska and South Dakota and more or less connected with a weak high in the central Rockies. By Thursday evening the main center will move to central Missouri with a ridge extending through Lake Michigan and northward. The high in the Rockies will be very weak and about 100 miles further southeast. Gulf moisture will remain cut off until about Friday. Temperatures will not vary too much because cold air is not able to penetrate this far southward.

Thus we will have fair weather Thursday and Thursday night. Temperatures will not be quite as warm in southeast Nebraska and southwest Iowa Thursday night, slightly warmer in eastern Nebraska and western Iowa Thursday night, a little warmer Thursday in northwestern Nebraska and also in north central Nebraska Thursday night.

Trio Seek Fairbury Crown

Twins Kathy (center) and Irene Brinn of Powell and Carolyn Weerts (left) of Fairbury are competing for the Fairbury Junior College "Miss Homecoming" crown this week. The coeds were chosen by student body vote. Homecoming festivities begin Friday at 4 p.m. with a parade through downtown Fairbury. Evening activities include an alumni banquet at 5:45, the game between Fairbury and Wentworth Military Academy at 7:30, and a dance following the game.

Plans Readied For Freeman's Visit

North Platte (AP) — Plans are nearing completion for the appearance of agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman at a press conference and public meeting here Wednesday, Oct. 9, officials of the Nebraska Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) said Wednesday.

The press conference will start at 10 a.m. at the Adams Junior High School here. A public meeting, one of 13 "report and review" sessions scheduled by the secretary around the country this fall, will begin at 10:30 a.m. at the school.

Scheduled times for both the press conference and the "report and review" session are changed slightly from those originally announced, ASCS spokesmen noted.

Milo, Soybean Yields Again Running High

Falls City (UPI) — Reports from elevators in Richardson County indicate milo and soybean yields are running about as good as in the bumper crop year of 1962.

One farmer in the area reported a milo yield of 111 bushels to the acre by actual weight and measurement.

Some soybeans have been yielding between 30 and 35 bushels to the acre.

Room At The Top? Board Thinks So

... SHARP BLDG. EXPANSION OK'D

The Board of Zoning Appeals approved Wednesday a zoning waiver that would permit the expansion of the 16th and 17th floors of the Sharp Building at 13th and M.

Lincoln's zoning code limits the height of buildings in the downtown business district to 150 feet or approximately 12 stories.

The Sharp Building, constructed in 1927, has 15 full-size stories, but the two top stories are constructed as a type of penthouse.

The W-K Realty Co., which acquired the building in 1945, told the board the expansion of the 16th and 17th stories is needed for utilization of the building to its fullest economic potential.

Taxes, Competition — An attorney for the company said high taxes and competing office space in suburban areas required expansion of the Sharp Building for additional office space.

The proposed expansion would not increase the height of the building, but would merely extend the walls of the 16th and 17th stories to match the remainder of the building, he said.

The appeal board's recommendation for approval on a 3-1 vote was forwarded to the City Council for final action.

In other action, the board:

—denied a waiver of side yard to the Lincoln Yearbook Co. to extend a building at 25th and Apple.

—denied a waiver of front, side and rear yards to James S. Blackman for additions to his residence at 2544 Sowell.

—denied a waiver of rear yard to Mrs. Fisher to construct an attached garage on a residence at 6345 Cleveland.

—approved a waiver of minimum lot area for the construction of residences at 801 Cleveland and 809 Cleveland, as requested by the Belmont Construction Co. Each lot contained 3,750 square feet as compared with the required minimum in the zoning district of 4,000.

EVEN TOPEKA DOG CATCHER GOT CALLED IN

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — The fire department, a highway patrolman, the dog catcher and neighbors converged Tuesday night when it was reported 6-year-old Richard Wilson was trapped in a storm sewer pipe.

The men checked a block and a half of the underground line. The boy's mother shouted into the pipe, asking her son to answer.

About that time Richard walked up the street. He had been at a neighbor's playing school, he told his mother.

Back At No. 10

London (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan moved back into his official residence at 10 Downing Street after an absence of several years forced by remodeling of the structure. The prime minister had been in temporary residence at Admiralty House.

Chicago Retiree Keeps Luncheon Dates In New York

Road Sign Problems To Be Discussed

By ROBERT PETERSON

Want to know how folks with money add kicks to their retirement? A businessman tells me he and his wife took a round-the-world cruise in 1959. On board he became friendly with a retired Chicago banker. After circling the globe they parted the best of friends and the younger man said, "Whenever you're in New York, let's get together for lunch."

"All right," replied the old gentleman, "I'll come and have luncheon with you the first Monday of every month." And this is what he has been doing ever since.

It seems that on the evening preceding each monthly luncheon the old gentleman has his chauffeur drive him to Union Station in Chicago where he takes a private bedroom on the overnight train to New York. He arrives the next morning, checks into a hotel adjoining Grand Central Terminal, and takes a brief rest. Then he goes to the hotel dining room where he meets his friend and they enjoy a leisurely two hour luncheon.

Then the old gentleman returns to his room, takes a nap, checks out of the hotel, spends an hour at the news-reel theater in the terminal, and boards the evening train back to the Windy City.

It's great to hear of elders who, instead of asking what others can do for them, exert themselves and ask what they can do for others.

A splendid example is Charles O. Young, 84, 218 Village Drive, Syracuse, N.Y. When his wife passed on five years ago he was tempted to become a recluse. But instead he began taking the bus two or three times weekly to the big Veterans Administration Hospital across town, where he has become one of their most dependable volunteers. To date he has put in over 700 hours visiting with patients and assisting the hospital staff. He lives alone, keeps a neat apartment, and does all his own cooking, cleaning, laundry, and even the ironing.

A retired widower who lives alone, writes, "Why don't ministers, priests, and rabbis suggest to members that they bring a senior citizen along to church, or that they take an older person home with them after services?"

"Due to an occasional lack of balance I can't drive a car anymore and need a firm shoulder to lean on. But I have no one to lend a hand so I'm largely home-bound. I try to keep occupied reading and doing water colors. But there comes a time when the pall of loneliness sneaks into one's existence and it is then that an invitation from another human would really brighten the soul."

Great idea. Churchgoers should awaken to the deep needs of older people. We give a lot of lip service to the needs of the elderly. We often say more should be done for the lonely and ailing. And, of course, we generously include them in our prayers.

But not one in a hundred can truthfully say that in the past year he has offered to drive an older person to church, or invited a lonely elder to his home for dinner.

If you would like a booklet "Things Churches Can Do for Older People" write to Robert Peterson c/o The Lincoln Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

Problems presently confronting the State Department of Roads highway signing program will be discussed at a meeting here in late October, State Engineer John Hossack said Wednesday.

Hossack said the meeting will be attended by Governor Morrison, Department of Roads officials and top representatives of various tourism interests in the state.

"The meeting will generally concern the problems we now face and how those problems can be isolated," Hossack said in an interview.

He noted that the meeting was arranged after the State Highway Advisory Commission and Morrison expressed a desire to have the department liberalize its signing policy, especially along interstate routes.

Following the late October conference, Hossack said, another informational meeting, but on a larger scale, will be held, possibly within two weeks to a month.

This second meeting will be attended by Chamber of Commerce officials, petroleum industry and other public accommodation representatives.

Hossack said he would like to see some kind of definite signing revision program established before the next tourism season arrives.

He said Highway Department personnel have been working on the signing program for about a year now and that several ideas have been developed. They will be explained at both meetings.

The state engineer noted that the American Association of Highway officials is also attempting to come up with a recommended service signing policy for member states to follow.

"The association is slated to meet in late October at which time I expect some specific recommendations to be made," he said, adding any adopted proposals would aid the Nebraska study.

The governor said he has felt for sometime that the department's signing policy should be liberalized. He issued a directive for the department to do just that following the commission's formal complaint.

Hossack said it is his hope that the upcoming meetings will result in "realistic proposals that can be jelled into a workable program."

Ag Products Lead In Soap 'Race'

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Agriculture is leading the petroleum industry in the race for the soap market.

That was the word Wednesday from Dr. Foster D. Snell of New York, a participant in the 1963 Independent Laboratories convention being held here this week.

Dr. Snell, head of a New York laboratory cooperating with Nebraska in research on non-foaming detergents, predicted a bright future for talow—an agricultural by-product—in the manufacture of such detergents.

The conversion rate of agricultural products to detergents is expected to surpass the petroleum industry's conversion rate, he said.

This could boost the use of agriculture products by 25% in the next three years in the manufacture of soap, he added.

Dr. Snell said that Nebraska is considered a leader in developing a research program for agricultural products. He said the program has attracted the attention of independent laboratories and added that he hopes other states will follow Nebraska's lead.

"This program doesn't have the economic advantages and can't produce enough fuel to be competitive with gasoline," Dr. Snell said.

The Independent Laboratories convention is being held in the Midwest for the first time this year.

Rep. Cunningham Protests Visit Of Yugoslav Premier

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Glenn Cunningham, R-Neb., protested the forthcoming visit to the United States of Yugoslav Premier Tito.

"I think it is bad for this country to invite dictators," Cunningham said in a news letter to constituents.

"I think it breaks faith with millions of people who look to this country as the symbol of individual freedom and dignity to receive this international gangster."

The congressman said the visit would "only add to the prestige of this avowed communist."

33-Foot Tree Disqualified From Contest: It's Twins

The 33-foot king cottonwood, which led its category in the Game Commission and University of Nebraska-sponsored big tree contest, has been disqualified, the commission reports.

It is twins, the N.U. Extension Service said after inspecting the tree. It is really two trees growing together and, therefore, cannot qualify for the title.

Taking over the top spot in the cottonwood category in the unofficial tabulations is a 30-foot 6-inch giant, entered by Marshall Nurseries at Arlington.

1st in Nebraska

The contest is the first such tree survey ever conducted in Nebraska and seeks the largest specimens of 10 species: American elm, red cedar, bur oak, hackberry, black walnut, green ash, linden (basswood), honey locust, ponderosa pine, and cottonwood.

A total of 2,000 young trees will be awarded to discoverers of the champions, with 200 going to the winners in each category.

Current leaders in the contest, with girth measurements and those who entered them include:

Cottonwood—30 feet 6 inches, Marshall Nurseries, Arlington; bur oak—17 feet 6 inches, Fred Duer, Staplehurst; American Elm—20 feet, John Elvers, Sr., Fort Calhoun; green ash—9 feet 6 inches, O. D. Brink, Riskin; Honey locust—11 feet 8 inches, Gerald Dee Hedges, Bennet; Hackberry—11 feet 1 inch, J. A. Potter, Blari; linden (basswood)—12 feet, Miss Nina Siepelmeier, Lorton; ponderosa pine—9 feet, Mrs. Lawrence Harms, Clay Center; black walnut—12 feet 6 inches, B. L. Berger, Nebraska City; and red cedar—6 feet 9 inches, Mrs. Cecil McCullough, Bassett.

Omahan Files $1,528,827 Suit Against Phillips

Omaha (U) — Norman L. Hahn of Omaha has filed a $1,528,827 suit in Federal Court against Phillips Petroleum Company alleging violations of the federal regulatory laws.

Hahn, president of the American Gas Company of Omaha and minority stockholder in two other companies in which Phillips is allegedly the majority stockholder, charges that Phillips violated the Robinson-Patman act by selling supplies to competitors of the two propane companies at greater discounts than he allows to the two companies in which Phillips holds the majority stock.

He also claims Phillips violated the Sherman and Clayton antitrust acts by compelling the two propane companies to buy all supplies from Phillips at fixed prices.

In his suit Hahn is seeking $732,032.64 on behalf of the American Propane Gas Inc., and $796,795.32 for American Propane Gas Company.

$3,024 Worth Of Spark Plugs Are Reported Stolen

Beatrice (UPI) — Police are investigating the break-in of the L. J. Messer auto supply store in Beatrice.

Dave Carson, manager of the store, said 3,000 spark plugs were missing.

Police said burglars climbed over the roof and entered through the second story window.

Only popular numbered plugs were reported stolen. No tractor plugs were taken. Carson estimated the retail value of the plugs at $3,024 computed at the rate of $1.08 each.

Chadron Library Plans Discussed

Chadron (UPI) — Plans for a $630,000 library building to be built on the Chadron State College campus are being discussed here after approval of the project was given last week by the State Normal Board.

The three-story building will have 28,900 square feet, compared with 8,600 square feet in the present library. The present facilities will be remodeled and used for industrial arts classes.

Bids on the new building will be asked about the first of the year.

A new 300-bed student dormitory is also planned for the campus. An unexpected increase in enrollment this year has caused overcrowding at the present dorm, built for 411 students and now housing 502.

Wake up rarin' to go

without nagging backache

Now! You can get the fast relief you need from nagging backache, headache and muscular aches and pains that often cause restless nights and miserable tired-out feelings. When these discomforts come on with over-exertion or stress and strain — you want relief — want it fast! Another disturbance may be mild bladder irritation following wrong food and drink — often setting up a restless uncomfortable feeling.

Doan's Pills work fast in 3 separate ways: 1. by speedy pain-relieving action to ease torment of nagging backache, headaches, muscular aches and pains. 2. by soothing effect on bladder irritation. 3. by mild diuretic action tending to increase output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes.

Enjoy a good night's sleep and the same happy relief millions have for over 60 years.

$80,000 Pledged Before Hospital Campaign Starts

Humboldt (UPI) — A fund drive to collect $150,000 for the community hospital will be launched next week, but nearly $80,000 has already been pledged.

Drive sponsors said they got a big boost with the announcement by Dr. Harlan S. Helm that he would donate both the present Humboldt hospital and the Holman hospital to the committee which plans to build a new hospital.

Two Lake Sharpe Recreation Contracts Awarded

Omaha (U) — The Army Engineers announced Wednesday award of the first two contracts for recreation development at Lake Sharpe behind Big Bend Dam on the Missouri River below Pierre, S.D.

Col. H. J. St. Clair, Omaha district engineer, said both contracts call for completion by June 1, 1964, to make the recreation areas involved available for use next season.

Missouri Basin Construction Co., Mitchell, S. D., was awarded a $34,270.30 contract for construction of an access road, a 100-car parking lot and a 40-foot wide boat ramp at the De Gray recreation area near Pierre. Ridahl Construction Co., Minneapolis was awarded a $112,573.40 contract for access road, 30-car parking lots, and two-lane concrete boat ramps at the Joe Creek and West Bend public use areas.

The engineers plan to have the boat ramps completed before Lake Sharpe, now being filled, rises to the ramp levels.

'Group Of 10' Thinks Existing Machinery Can Aid Finances

Washington (AP) — A group of 10 wealthy nations said Wednesday they probably will rely on existing machinery to propel any new steps toward strengthening the world of international finance.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, temporary chairman of a "group of 10" nations, said the study of his group would work without friction alongside an inquiry set up by the International Monetary Fund.

Although Dillon said the managing director of the Fund, Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, had given his blessing to the 10-nation study, he made it clear that the inquiry would not be limited to possible actions which might be taken "in and through the fund."

In carefully hedged statements suited to the world of international finance, Dillon and others at the international conclave have made it clear that they do not intend to change the price of gold or abandon the system of fixed exchange rates.

Strong Support

The combined meeting of the boards of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund has produced strong support for the two parallel studies of "international liquidity"—the gold, currency or credit used as a means of payment between governments.

Although Dillon described the Fund study as limited to possible uses of the Fund itself, Schweitzer later said it would be bounded only "by the limits of common sense."

The main reason for the 10-nation study, Dillon said, is to provide a viewpoint outside the Fund.

He said conclusions probably would be reached by spring, so that delegates could then report to their respective countries in time for action by next fall's meeting of the Fund in Tokyo. The study will be headed by Robert V. Roosa, U.S. undersecretary of the treasury for monetary affairs.

'Paris Club'

When a newsman asked Schweitzer whether the "Group of 10"—also known as the "Paris Club" and "The 10"—had the voting power in the Fund to dictate a course of action, Schweitzer diplomatically replied that he had never seen the Fund decide a major issue "by a simple show of hands."

The 10 nations include the United States, United Kingdom, France, Germany, Italy,

Japan, The Netherlands, Sweden, Belgium and Canada. Switzerland, which is not a member of the fund, will be kept informed of developments and may join in later.

The group said the removal of imbalances still existing in the external accounts of some major countries is the most important objective to be pursued over the near future.

This obviously included the long-standing U.S. balance of payments deficit—the flow of dollars abroad. This country spends, lends, invests and gives away more than it receives from other countries.

Strike Against Armour Co. Voted At Omaha, Elsewhere

Omaha (AP) — Some 2,000 members of Local 8, United Packinghouse Workers of America, attended a meeting Wednesday night at which they agreed to strike at 12:01 a.m. Thursday against the Armour and Co. Packing plant here in a work load dispute.

Local President Herbert Lockard said 2,300 workers would not report for jobs Thursday.

At Mason City, Iowa, members of Local 38 voted in favor of a strike. About 1,200 to 1,400 workers would be affected.

Walkout Planned

And production workers at Armour plants in Kansas City, Kan. and St. Joseph, Mo., planned to go on strike in the work load dispute.

Strikes also were planned at Armour plants at South St. Paul and Denver.

Some 1,800 workers were to be affected at Kansas City, 1,000 in St. Joseph.

United Packinghouse Workers Union has headquarters in Chicago.

Production Hike Demanded

At St. Joseph the issue is a 12½% increase in production demanded by Armour. Local 58 had voted to accept the increase, then reversed itself and ousted President Ralph Carver who negotiated a speedup arrangement with Armour.

Harry Hendrick, a union field representative, announced the strike plans in St. Joseph. John Butler, president of Local 15, disclosed them in Kansas City, Kan.

Packinghouse workers at Armour's South St. Paul, Minn., plant also voted Wednesday night to join the strike. About 2,600 production workers will be involved.

Omahans Seek Establishment Of ETV Station

Omaha (AP) — The Metropolitan Omaha Education Television Committee adopted a resolution Wednesday calling for the early establishment of an educational television station in Omaha.

The resolution urged the Nebraska ETV Commission to activate "at the earliest possible date" channel 16. This channel has been designated by the federal communications commission for use as an ETV outlet in Omaha.

The newly formed commission, empowered by the Legislature to set up a network of ETV stations, will not take office until Oct. 19. However, its members will meet informally in Lincoln Friday.

Omaha school superintendent Paul Miller, chairman of the Omaha committee made up of educators and commercial television interests, said the group will present its resolution at that time.

The car that answers the question, "After their '63 model, what in the world will Pontiac do for '64?"

Let's face it: it wasn't easy coming up with a worthy successor to our super-successful '63. But we did it, as you can plainly see. Evidence? Trim new styling, with interiors just as clean and handsome as the exterior. A smoother, quieter ride—which is something we seem to deliver every year. Wide-Track for curve-straightening and 389 cubic inches worth of Trophy V-8 power in every model. All in all, every

'64 Pontiac looks and feels and acts like competitive cars wish they did and don't. Are we right in assuming you'd rather be down at your dealer's than sitting there reading? We thought so. Be our guest!

City Employees Ask Return Of Holidays

The City Employees Association has approved a petition seeking the restoration of five paid holidays eliminated this year by the City Council on recommendation of the City Personnel Board.

The five holidays removed from the city's approved list were Lincoln's birthday, Washington's birthday, Columbus Day, Arbor Day and Veterans Day.

A petition drive has collected 400 signatures so far.

Signing employees feel that the five holidays should have been extended to city workers outside of City Hall and not taken away from employees working in City Hall.

City officials say that extension of the additional holidays to the uniformed departments—fire and police—would have added considerably to the city payroll.

Double Pay

Because of the shift system for firemen, it virtually means double pay for the entire department on holidays.

Dwight Johnson, deputy tax assessor, was elected as the 1963-64 president of the association, narrowly defeating Don Smith, police lieutenant for the office. He succeeds Stan Sobolka.

Elected directors were Lois Coffey, Marian Aguirre, Bob Obering, Mrs. Marguerite Spadt, Frieda Hetherington, Ivan Baker, Bob Rist, Lee Boehmer, Stan Sobolka, Roy Casper, Gayland Duff, Melvin Dorn, Wanda Spaulding, Sidney Benash, Judy McDonald and Smith.

Fremont Will Host 500 At Jehovah's Witnesses Meet

Fremont — About 500 delegates are expected in Fremont Oct. 11-13, for the Mid-Nebraska session of Jehovah's Witnesses, George D. Smith, minister of the local congregation said.

The delegates will represent 23 congregations from Blair to Ogallala and north to the state line.

D. R. Sargent, circuit overseer for the district and representative of the Watchtower Society of Brooklyn has arrived in Fremont to make plans for the convention. Peter D'Mura, district supervisor of the seven states, will be the principal speaker.

Sawmill Shelled In Cuba

Havana — The Cuban Armed forces ministry announced Wednesday the destruction of a sawmill at Cayo Guin, on the north coast of Oriente Province, by a ship it called a pirate.

A communique said the vessel slipped into the area under cover of darkness early Tuesday, destroyed the mill and escaped to the north. The British-ruled Bahama Islands lie north of Cayo Guin.

A Havana dispatch relayed by the Soviet news agency Tass said the ship opened up with shellfire at about 2:50 a.m. It called this "a new piratic attack on the Freedom Island."

Cuban exiles staged three such hit-and-run raids on Cuban targets in four days in August. Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government blamed the United States, though President Kennedy has banned launching of raids from U.S. territory. Cuba reinforced garrisons on the long north coast with troops, tanks and anti-aircraft guns.

Tuesday's target was about 40 miles northeast of Santiago and 550 miles southeast of Havana.

Frisco Cops Query Lads Because Crippled Girl Playmate Set Ablaze

San Francisco (UPI) — Police Wednesday were questioning three small boys, trying to find out how and why their 8-year-old crippled girl playmate was set afire.

The girl, Cathryn Reeves, was in San Francisco General Hospital in fair shape with third degree burns over 40% of her body.

The boys, two of them 10 years old and the other 7, all excited and confused, gave varying accounts of how Cathryn's dress was burned off of her.

Special Class
All four of the children attend a special ungraded class at Visitation Valley School. All are in the class because they have scored low on aptitude tests, according to their teacher, Miss Elizabeth Pelak.

Cathryn told police that two of the boys, who have teased her about the braces on her polio-crippled legs, threw a book of flaming matches at her.

"They all deny throwing them on her," said Police Lt. Dan Mahoney. "The boys claim she lit them herself."

Playing
"We know that the four children were playing together and that Cathryn evidently had the matches," he said.

Mahoney said that with the help of Miss Pelak he hoped to get a coherent account of the incident.

The girl was rushed to the hospital after a neighbor, alerted by the screams of two other young girls, saw her.

"I looked down the street and saw little Cathryn staggering along, screaming," the neighbor said. "Her clothes were all burned off. She was burned all over."

Because of her braces, which go from her feet to her waist, Cathryn "couldn't do

Steel Coils Flatten Car; 6 Lives Lost

East Liverpool, Ohio (AP) — Six persons were killed Wednesday night when a semi-trailer truck loaded with two large coils of steel went out of control on Ohio 7 north of here, the Ohio Highway Patrol reported.

Economic Study Of Plattsmouth Due Out Friday

First results of a two-week economic study of 92 Plattsmouth businesses by the State Department of Roads should be available Friday, it was announced Wednesday.

The accident occurred six miles north of here near the Beaver Local School.

Bruce Gillan, program and planning division head, said the purpose of the study is to measure the economic effect the Neb. 73-75 bypass has had on Plattsmouth. The bypass was completed in 1959.

The patrol said a Humes Trucking Co. vehicle went out of control on a hill and that one of the coils spun off.

Gillan said data covering a six-year period are being gathered from retail outlets in the area.

The steel smashed into a car, flattening it and killing five persons in the car. The auto then crossed into another lane of traffic and crashed into another vehicle. One person in the second car was killed and two were taken to East Liverpool City Hospital.

Names of the victims were not immediately determined.

People in the market for new appliances gain welcome information about brands and prices from the advertising pages of their local newspapers. In addition to benefiting from the millions of dollars worth of national advertising placed every year by manufacturers, they also learn what their local dealers are offering, since appliance retailers traditionally invest an average of 7½ out of every 10 advertising dollars in their local newspapers.

Military Base Commanders Asked To Report On Segregation Practices

Washington (UPI) — Military base commanders have been asked to report to the Defense Department full details of any segregation practices in nearby communities, it was disclosed Wednesday.

The Pentagon said it mailed questionnaires Sept. 24 "to obtain necessary information for the formulation of future policy." Base commanders were asked to report by Nov. 8.

The move was the latest in the Defense Department's new drive to halt off-base discrimination against Negro servicemen.

The campaign began last July when Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara issued a directive instructing base commanders to consider declaring off limits any off-base establishments, or communities, that discriminate against Negroes.

The original order was sharply attacked by Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. He introduced legislation that would make it a court-martial offense for base commanders to enforce the directive.

Vinson declined comment on the Pentagon's fact-finding questionnaires. There has been speculation that the off-limits device would be rarely, if ever, used, and that the emphasis would be primarily on moral persuasion to end off-base discrimination.

The July directive specifies that no base commander can issue an off-limits order without prior approval of the civilian secretary of his service. The questionnaires mailed to several hundred base commanders asked the number of Negroes and other personnel quartered on each base, and the names and populations of nearby communities.

Some of the questions and requests for information: — "Describe seating arrangements in bus, airline and railroad terminals."

— "Do white and Negro military dependent children travel in separate school buses? Explain if the answer is affirmative."

— "Describe segregation practices, if any, affecting military personnel and their dependents in use of publicly owned or controlled properties; i.e., parks, libraries, municipal golf courses, tennis courts and so forth (specify)."

— "Provide similar information in connection with non-governmental recreational facilities; i.e., theaters (including drive-ins), bowling alleys, taverns, golf driving ranges, etc. (specify)."

— "Provide similar information in connection with restaurants, (including drive-ins), lunch counters, hotels and motels."

— "Do white and Negro personnel have equal opportunity for adequate housing off-base?"

— "Briefly describe any local customs or laws which prevent or are enforced in a manner which discourages voluntary off-base association by white and Negro military personnel."

— "Is the treatment accorded Negro military personnel by the local police in any way different from that accorded white military personnel? (If so specify.)"

— "Is there a military-civilian community advisory committee and if so, is it bi-racial?"

Airlift Hauls Women, Children From Jakarta

Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia (UPI) — An emergency airlift of British military transport planes Wednesday flew women and children of 10 nationalities out of Jakarta amid reports of new clashes along the Indonesian-Malaysian border in Borneo. On the diplomatic front, Malaysia rejected proposals for a conference in Bangkok of the foreign ministers of this British-sponsored federation, Indonesia and the Philippines to settle the potentially-explosive crisis.

Reports from Kuching, capital of Sarawak, said at least 22 Indonesian "terrorists" were killed in fighting during the past few days with security forces. The reports said at least six British soldiers were believed killed and several wounded.

Indonesia shares the island of Borneo with the two Malaysian territories of Sarawak and Sabah (North Borneo). Border incidents have been frequent since union of the territories with Malaya and Singapore first was suggested.

Britain sent four Argosy transports to Jakarta to bring out about 160 women and children, dependents of Shell Oil Co. employees in Indonesian Borneo. They were rounded up by British consul Dr. Grace Thornton in an operation that began last Saturday and were flown in Indonesian planes from Balikpapan in East Borneo to Jakarta.

British Embassy spokesmen praised Dr. Thornton as the heroine of the operation. Ambassador Andrew Gilchrist said in Jakarta that it was "one of the most difficult jobs a foreign service woman has been assigned."

The first plane to return to Singapore carried 70 refugees including 27 women and 42 children.

Cambridge, Md., Officials Grope For Answer

... DEFEAT OF REFERENDUM LEAVES RACIAL DILEMMA

Cambridge, Md. (AP) — In an atmosphere of quiet despair, Cambridge officials are groping for another answer to the racial dilemma threatening the life of this beautiful little city.

What they had hoped would be a temporary answer lay buried in the vote returns from Tuesday's historic referendum.

By a 1,994 to 1,720 count, the people of Cambridge disapproved a town charter amendment. Aimed chiefly at preventing restaurants from denying service to Negroes, it also would apply to hotels and motels.

Bitterness
The defeat of the amendment passed by city council last July 1 deepened bitterness which has beset the 12,000 residents of the community for months.

Government officials said it was the nation's first public vote on the question, which embraces issues even now before the Supreme Court in a case involving a Baltimore restaurant and an amusement park in the Maryland suburbs of Washington, D.C.

The vote was held against a background of national guardmen continuing a 3½-month occupation to prevent renewed outbreaks of racial violence.

Problems
Once an issue pitting white against Negro, the proposal evolved into a myriad of problems including racial prejudice, economic survival, a tarnished national image and several political power struggles in both the white and Negro camps.

In what seemed to be the climax, a coalition of white and Negro leaders submerged personal and racial differences to try to gain approval of the amendment. Lined up against them were two groups, one Negro and the other white, which feared approval would mean erosion of rights.

William L. Wise and his Dorchester Businessmen and Citizens Association contended integration should not be forced and a businessman has a right to choose his customers.

Boycott
Mrs. Gloria Richardson, Negro chairman of the Cambridge Non-Violent Action Committee, urged her people to boycott the referendum. She said they should not be required to vote for a right already theirs.

Mayor Calvin W. Mowbray, ignoring the property rights vs human rights issue, called on residents to approve the referendum because he was convinced it would be good for the city.

The size of the Negro vote turnout was considered the key as Mrs. Richardson urged Negroes to stay home and Negro moderates urged them to vote.

Hopes Dashed
Hopes for a large Negro turnout were dashed, however, with 44% of the voters in the virtually all-Negro second ward favoring the amendment 587 to 32. The turnout was greater than expected in the white wards with 82% of the 3,747 voters casting ballots—against the amendment.

Where does the vote leave Cambridge?
"So far as I can see now, there is no possibility of a solution," said editor Maurice Rimp of the Cambridge Daily Banner. "I think the town has had it, economically and otherwise."

New Approaches
But to Mrs. Richardson and to William Wise, the vote means just a start on new approaches.

Wise called for a meeting of leaders of all factions to begin "conscientious negotiations" on settlement of the Cambridge racial problem. He admitted he has no immediate proposal other than an ordinance to restrict demonstrations.

Convicts Produce Savings For State, Pen Aide Says

It costs Nebraska $4 a day to keep a man in the State Penitentiary, Deputy Warden John Greenholz said Wednesday, but work performed by the inmates in shops and laboratories saves taxpayers considerable money.

Greenholz addressed the combined Organizations of Police Services (COPS).

Some 700 men work outside prison walls on closely supervised details, most of the rest work within the prison, he said.

One of 4 Categories

Greenholz said when a man arrives at the prison he is placed in one of four categories: minimum security, close custody, maximum security and isolation.

Minimum custody prisoners are eligible to work outside the prison. Close custody prisoners work in shops inside the prison. Maximum security prisoners are under close observation at all times and the isolated prisoner is just that: isolated from all other prisoners and freedoms.

Greenholz said there are about 20 to 30 prisoners now in maximum security and about eight in isolation.

Each man starts work at $6 a month. Pay raises are possible. Highly skilled workers, some of them college graduates, are able to earn up to $15 a month.

Shops employing prisoners include a laundry, which serves five state institutions, a furniture manufacturing shop, a furniture repair shop, a sheet metal shop, a shoe repair shop, a printing shop, a soap factory and a dairy shop.

All products must go to tax-supported institutions.

Education Important

Greenholz said education plays an important role at the prison, but "one thing we can't teach is self-reliance."

Greenholz said he feels quality of the guards at the Penitentiary is at its present standard because of the low salaries paid (them), and the amount of training given them.

"All we can do is find our weak spots and then attempt to correct them," he said.

Close Regulation Of Stream Flow Users Reported

The State Water Resources Department was forced this past summer to regulate stream flow users more closely because of heavy demands on water supplies by irrigators, Director Dan S. Jones said Wednesday.

The irrigation season closed Oct. 1.

Jones said regulation of water users was especially active on central and western Nebraska streams. These areas had unusually dry summers.

Jones said water consumption on the reservoirs was higher than normal. He said he will not be able to determine the status of remaining supplies until all reports are in and he prepares a summary in about 10 days.

Betancourt Leading Crackdown On Left

... BACK FROM SEA CRUISE

Caracas, Venezuela (UPI) — President Romulo Betancourt returned to his office Wednesday after an unpublished four-day seatrip and took personal command of the government's "gloves off" crackdown on Communists and the radical movement of the revolutionary left.

Betancourt had been in constant radiotelephone contact with his office during his "rests," aides said.

He was reported to have been cruising near offshore Margarita Island in north-eastern Venezuela with a destroyer escort.

At least 150 known Communists and members of the radical left were reported to have been arrested since Monday, when the government went all-out in its campaign to crush the underground Armed Forces for National Liberation (FALN).

However, one Communist leader still at large said the party estimated at least 450 persons were in government hands.

"By the time the government gets through, there will be thousands of us in jail," the anonymous informant said.

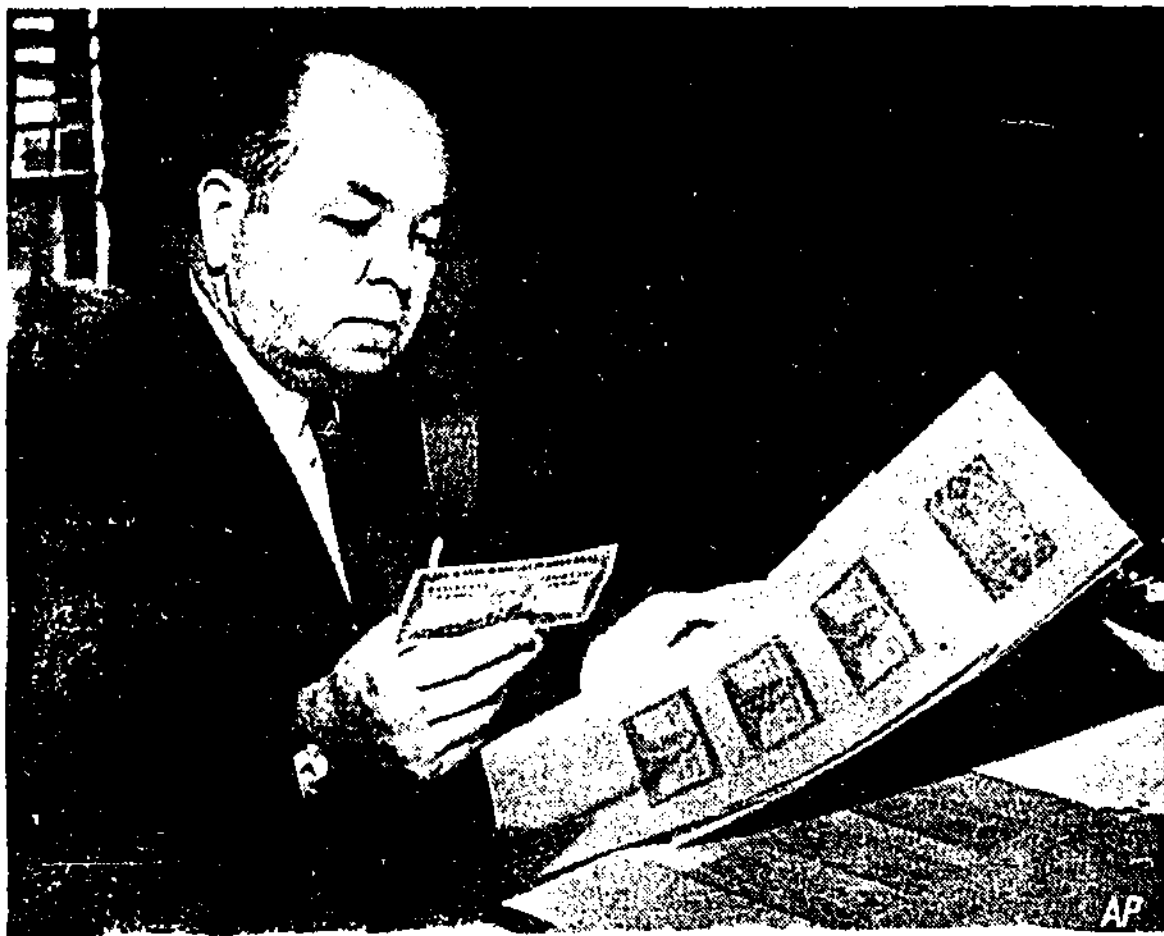

Betancourt faced a political fight over the arrests of Communist and leftist members of congress. Lawyers for the Reds, and the political opposition, sought loopholes in the constitution and laws to prove the roundup of parliamentarians illegal.

Government sources insisted Betancourt was on solid ground in ordering the Red roundup, even of congressmen, in order to guarantee peaceful and orderly general elections next December. However, the opposition charged the government had staged a "coup," nullified the congress and, therefore, effectively voided the election.

By Friday

Under the constitution, the government must prove by Friday that the charges against the arrested congressmen are based on evidence of their responsibility for the wave of terrorism which has resulted in hundreds of deaths and millions of dollars in damages in Venezuela in the past two years.

The constitution specifically bans house arrest of members of congress for more than 96 hours unless ratified by the parliament itself, or legalized by a standing committee of congress.

SECRET SERVICE AGENT ... A. E. Whitaker eyes plates.

Bogus Note Plot Against Castro Told

New York (AP) — A suspected conspirator has described a plot to produce the downfall of Fidel Castro's government by turning out $50 million in bogus Cuban notes.

Federal authorities said four were involved in the plot, including two who were arrested in Baltimore Wednesday and charged with conspiracy.

They were Robert D. Morrow, a 35-year-old electronics engineer, and his wife, Cecily, 32, charged in an arraignment before a U.S. commissioner.

In New York, authorities identified the third conspirator as Mario Garcia Kohly, 62, of Arlington, Va. He was arrested Tuesday night by Secret Service agents in his midtown hotel room.

U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau said Kohly was in possession of counterfeit plates to be used in producing the phoney 50-peso notes.

Kohly, in an appearance before U.S. Commissioner Earle N. Bishopp, waived a hearing and was held in $10,- 000 bail. Later, he asked for reduced bail and went free after posting $5,000.

Fourth Suspect

A warrant has been issued for the fourth suspected conspirator, identified as Bill Evans, of Washington, D.C.

Secret Service agents in Baltimore raided Morrow's home and seized photographic negatives, from which seven sets of plates allegedly were made to counterfeit the notes.

GUERRILLAS ATTACK IN DELTA

Salon (UPI) — Communist guerrilla forces have mounted four separate night attacks on government outposts since Monday in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon, a Vietnamese military spokesman said Wednesday.

Six South Vietnamese government troops were killed and 17 wounded in the series of clashes, according to the spokesman. The Communists also captured nine weapons in one clash, he said.

The stepped-up attacks by Communist Viet Cong guerrillas was disclosed only a day after the departure from Saigon of U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. McNamara and Taylor made a 10-day tour of South Viet Nam, including a personal inspection of the Red-impacted Mekong Delta area, to prepare a report for President Kennedy on the status of the anti-Communist war here.

Xoai Chet In Glang

The Vietnamese spokesman Wednesday said that at the strategic hamlet of Xoai Chet in an Glang Province, government defenders drove off the Communist attacking force, killing at least two guerrillas.

Communist losses in the other attacks on government positions in the Mekong Delta were not reported.

But the spokesman said that guerrillas lost eight killed in three separate ambushes set by government militiamen in the same period. He said government militiamen captured four Communist rifles, four grenades, five mines and one pistol and destroyed a sampan.

On another sector, in Communist-infested Binh Long Province, 39 Communists were killed in an air strike, an American military spokesman announced. In addition, the government forces captured a small quantity of ammunition and two weapons, the spokesman said.

Kennedy Signs Military Pay Hike With Pleasure

Washington (AP)—With "great pleasure," President Kennedy signed legislation Wednesday giving men and women of the armed forces the pay raises he promised—ranging between $120 and $25 a month, starting immediately.

The President said his administration would make every effort to keep a pledge to maintain military pay in line with living costs.

Signing the bill before a gathering of about two dozen in the cabinet room, Kennedy said while he is impressed with the new and powerful weapons, he is mindful that it is men who "manage them, control them and have the will to direct them."

Biggest in History

This biggest pay boost in history for service personnel—the first general raise since 1950—will cost the taxpayers $1.2 billion a year. It is designed primarily to keep key young officer and enlisted personnel in the services.

The measure went through Congress with little opposition, the main disagreements being over details—such as the decision to limit the increase to those with over two years of service. The Senate approved the bill 79 to 0 last week and the House by a 332-5 vote Tuesday.

Kennedy used more than a dozen pens to sign the measure. Present for the ceremony were members of Congress from both parties and a sprinkling of top military officers.

After signing, Kennedy distributed the pens to Congress members present.

He told the gathering that Americans in uniform serve with sacrifice and dedication. On them "the peace of this world of ours and its security depend in 'good measure,'" Kennedy said.

The President said the pay boost is part of his administration's effort to keep the pledge of trying to maintain military pay in line with living costs.

Compromise

The bill he signed is a compromise of Senate and House versions and carries $30 million less in benefits than the Defense Department had asked.

The increases, which average 14%, range from 25.7% $95, for first lieutenants to five per cent, $85 and $75, for four and three star generals—or their Navy equivalents.

Those with less than two years of service who get no pay raises are mainly draftees or Army ROTC officer graduates completing their obligated service. Many ROTC graduates of other services now have longer obligations.

Reserves and National Guardsmen will have their active duty and drill pay increased under the same scale as active service personnel. And most retired military personnel will get a five per cent raise.

Roman Catholics Put New Emphasis On Studying Meanings And Symbols

Vatican City (AP)—New Roman Catholic emphasis on biblical research, long a favorite domain of Protestant scholars emerged Wednesday at the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

Most of the day's 17 speakers in St. Peter's Basilica dwelt on word meanings and symbols from both Old and New Testaments as they suggested changes in the schema (topic) "De Ecclesia"—concerning the church.

They delved in areas that touch upon exegesis—a theological specialty in which biblical scholars investigate and interpret scriptural meanings.

Lord's Intent

"De Ecclesia" re-examines what Christ intended in founding a church, what its structure really is and who belongs to it. A draft of the schema was approved in principle by the council Tuesday. The 2,300 council fathers heard views on the first of the schema's four chapters, "The Mystery of the Church."

The chapter starts from the very earliest biblical notions of the chosen "people of God" and a promised "Kingdom of God." It also dwells on St. Peter and the other 11 Apostles and how they serve as the foundation on which the church was built.

A Dutch cardinal and an Italian bishop presented sharply contrasting opinions, both based on biblical interpretation, as to whether the other Apostles share with Peter in church authority.

In Succession

Because Catholicism sees its Popes as Peter's successors and its bishops as the Apostles' successors, the discussion will serve later in the council debates for an expansion of bishops' participation in papal authority.

Bernard Jan Cardinal Alfrink, a renowned Catholic exegete before he became archbishop of Utrecht, said the "De Ecclesia" makes too much of the phrase "Peter and the Apostles" and thus implies that Peter was not one of the Apostles.

Cardinal Alfrink, a leading progressive, said Scripture shows in several places not only that Peter was the rock on which Christ's church was founded but also that the other Apostles in their own way were part of that foundation.

Papal Peril

Bishop Luigi Carli of Segni said he thought it would be faulty to represent the founding of the church as having been on Peter and the Apostles. He said there would be a danger to the supremacy of the Roman pontiff if the founding image were extended to the other Apostles.

Most people are bound to tire of vegetables—or any food for that matter—when served in the same form every time.

If cabbage is always shredded and steamed, carrots always whole and celery rarely served as a cooked vegetable, here are some new ideas. Team vegetables with sauces made with dairy products that give both exciting flavor and good nutrition.

With piquant sauces, vegetables are lifted out of the ordinary realm. But don't save these ideas just for company. Who deserves exciting flavor and good nutrition more than your own family?

DILL BUTTER WITH VEGETABLES

½ cup butter
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1½ teaspoon dill weed
2 cups sliced carrots, cooked and drained
2 cups sliced celery, cooked and drained

Melt butter. Add lemon juice and dill weed. Add ½ of the dill butter to each of the hot vegetables; mix well. Makes ½ cup sauce, enough for 4 servings each of sliced carrots and celery.

MUSTARD CREAM SAUCE WITH CABBAGE

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups milk
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

1 small head cabbage, cut in wedges, cooked and drained

Melt butter in saucepan. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk slowly and cook over low heat, stirring constantly until sauce is smooth and thickened. Add mustard and Worcestershire sauce; mix well. Serve atop hot cabbage wedges. Makes 1½ cups sauce, enough for 4 servings.

SWEET-SOUR SPICED BEET RING

Juice from 1 pound can diced beets
Water
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
1 tablespoon mixed pickling spice
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
½ teaspoon instant minced garlic
1 tablespoon sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
3 tablespoons cider vinegar
1½ cups diced cooked beets
Salad greens
½ cup sour cream
½ cup mayonnaise
½ teaspoon instant minced onion

Drain beets, add water to juice to make 3 cups. Soften gelatin in 1 cup of the beet juice. Combine remaining beet juice and pickling spice and simmer 2 minutes. Strain out spices and pour over softened gelatin. Add next 5 ingredients. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in diced beets. Turn into an oiled 5-cup mold. Chill until firm and ready to serve. Just before serving, turn out onto a serving plate. Garnish with salad greens. Combine the last 3 ingredients and serve on salad.

YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

CHICKEN IN CHEESE SAUCE (Serves 4)

1 cup celery
½ cup carrots
¼ cup softened butter or margarine
1-10½-ounce can cream of chicken soup
1-11-ounce can cheddar cheese soup
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon onion powder
1 teaspoon paprika
salt and pepper
2 cups cooked, boned chicken

Saute celery and carrots in butter or margarine until tender. Add cream of chicken soup, cheddar cheese soup, milk, onion powder, paprika, and salt and pepper to taste. Blend thoroughly and add chicken, simmer for about 15 minutes.

Here's a beautiful party-perfect meringue pie that shows off the refreshing flavor of canned pineapple juice to perfection. It's elegant and has a delicate melt in your mouth filling. The trick is to fold part of the meringue into the cooked filling. Swirl the rest gracefully over the top making sure to anchor it securely to the crust. Bake until meringue is golden.

starch and pineapple juice to gether. Cook, stirring, until mixture begins to thicken. Continue cooking over low heat about 10 minutes stirring often until filling becomes very thick and clear. Blend a little of hot mixture into well beaten egg yolks. Return mixture to pan and cook 2 or 3 minutes longer. Remove from heat. Beat in butter. Cool. Beat egg whites, salt and cream of tartar to soft peaks. Gradually beat in remaining sugar until stiff peaks form. Gently fold almost half of meringue into cooled pineapple custard. Turn into baked pastry shell. Swirl remaining meringue over top. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool thoroughly before cutting. Makes 1 (9-inch) pie.

Sauce With A Flair

There are probably as many ways of preparing fish fillets as there are fish in the sea. Amateur cooks and chefs find great delight in creating original sauces, toppings and stuffings for these flavorful fish. Naturally, with the fillets themselves so easy to prepare there is plenty of time left over to spend on making go-togethers.

DEVILED FISH FILLETS

1 package frozen fish fillets
3 tablespoons prepared mustard
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs
¼ teaspoon salt
Pinch pepper
½ teaspoon crushed thyme
½ teaspoon oregano
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Let fillets thaw at room temperature or on refrigerator shelf. Brush each fillet on both sides with prepared mustard. Combine bread crumbs with salt, pepper, thyme and oregano. Dip fillets in seasoned crumbs. Place on preheated greased baking sheet. Sprinkle with melted butter. Bake at 550 degrees (very hot oven), 10 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serve with Devil Sauce. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

DEVIL SAUCE

1 small onion, chopped
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 teaspoon flour
½ cup tomato sauce
2 tablespoons vinegar
¼ teaspoon salt
Pinch pepper
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Cook onion in butter until tender. Stir in flour. Add vinegar and tomato sauce, salt and pepper. Cook until thickened. Just before serving, stir in parsley.

This One Will Be A Favorite

In the seemingly mysterious jargon of French restaurant menus, the term "Piemontais" is used to indicate that Parmesan cheese is a featured ingredient in the dish. Thus Shrimp Piemontais essentially is a casserole of shrimp, Parmesan cheese and green beans becomes a glamorous main dish. This knack of elevating relatively simple dishes to the realm of gourmet specialties by giving them French names is a good trick to use at home. When the family asks, "What's for dinner?" a mouthwatering response like "Shrimp Piemontais" will have an astounding psychological effect. Try it and see.

SHRIMP PIEMONTAIS (Shrimp Parmesan Casserole)

1 pound shrimp fresh or frozen, or one (8 or 10-oz.) package peeled and deveined shrimp
3 tablespoons corn oil
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1½ cups cooked French-cut green beans
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped or sliced
½ pint sour cream
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons chopped onion

If necessary, shell and devein shrimp. Sauté shrimp in corn oil mixed with parsley until shrimp are lightly and evenly browned. Place cooked green beans in bottom of greased 1½ quart casserole. Reserve a few shrimp for garnishing and place remainder on top of green beans. Cover with sliced or chopped eggs. Combine sour cream, Parmesan cheese and onion, and cover on top of casserole. Bake in 375 degree oven for 15 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

—RUSK, GROMYKO TALK—

Space N-Weapons Ban Given Chance

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — The American and Soviet foreign ministers indicated Wednesday night there is a chance for agreement to ban nuclear weapons in space.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko talked for three hours at Gromyko's quarters — the only scheduled strictly U.S.-Soviet meeting in the current round of East-West discussions.

Shortly before they began the session Rusk told newsmen "our policy is pretty much the same" against orbiting mass destruction weapons. But "we will discuss it to find out" whether a formal U.S.-Soviet agreement can be reached, he said.

Gromyko Echo

Gromyko also said the United States and Russians are near agreement on this.

At the end of the meeting Rusk said he and Gromyko had talked about possible further East-West accords "particularly in the disarmament field."

Rusk said there were "no communications or conclusions" coming from the meeting. "We covered a lot of ground," he said.

The secretary of state said he will be seeing President Kennedy at 7:30 a.m. (CST) at the White House Thursday. Rusk is returning to Washington briefly for the visit of Ethiopia's Haile Selassie, but he is to return to New York for a second and final three-way parley between himself, Gromyko and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home Thursday night.

Most Important

Both U.S. and Soviet sources described the Wednesday night meeting as the most important of its kind since Rusk was in Moscow in August to sign the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

Rusk was expected first to raise the issue of the continued presence of Soviet troops in Cuba, making plain to Gromyko that the United States wants them out. Then they were to go on to a variety of items ranging from proposals for more U.S.-Soviet trade to cooperating in space.

Bringing up the U.S. dislike of the continued Russian presence in Cuba has been standard U.S. diplomatic practice in talks with the Soviets since last fall's missile crisis. The usual Russian response is to accuse the United States of aggressive designs against Cuba.

Other Items

U.S. sources listed these other items of possible U.S.-Soviet agreement which they said could come up in the Rusk-Gromyko session or later:

Trade expansion beyond any one-shot wheat deal; building of new embassies in Moscow and Washington; a private communications line to the West for the U.S. embassy in Moscow; a compact covering consular activities; a New York-Moscow commercial air route; wider cultural exchanges; cooperation in space medicine, and sending a man to the moon.

Catholic Council Chiefs Pondering Admitting Women

Vatican City (AP) — Vatican sources said Wednesday that Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council authorities were studying the possibility of admitting women to the assembly.

It was understood the plan was to invite officers of international women's organizations to the council's third phase next year.

THERESA FLETCHER

Hypnosis Turns Girl Hysterical

Elizabethton, Tenn. (AP) — A 13-year-old schoolgirl who became hysterical after being hypnotized by an amateur magician improved some Wednesday but was described as confused.

"She has talked rationally at times but she's still confused," said a psychiatrist of Theresa Carol Fletcher.

Theresa was one of three girls who were hypnotized at Unaka High School Tuesday by C. H. Cunningham, 55, of Kingsport, an amateur magician.

After inducing the girls into a hypnotic state, investigators said, Cunningham had them do such things as pretend they were eating. In response to Cunningham's suggestions, two of the girls returned to their normal state of mind. But Theresa failed to respond and became hysterical.

She was brought to a hospital here and placed under sedation.

A psychiatrist from nearby Johnson City was called in on the case. He spent about two hours with the girl Wednesday.

Terry Favors Refunds If Time Sales Penalties Revised

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said Wednesday that if the Legislature is going to revise the penalty laws relative to time sales matters the bill should provide for the "refund of finance charges on every contract written" under the 1959 Installment Sales Act.

The Nebraska Supreme Court last June declared the 1959 act unconstitutional and in two cases applied the penalties contained in the Installment Loan Act.

These penalties provide forfeiture of merchandise, principal and interest.

$400 Million Involved

It has been estimated that the amount of time sales contracts written under the 1959 act totals about $400 million.

Gov. Frank Morrison, who is expected to issue the formal call for the Oct. 21 special session of the Legislature next week, has said he believes the lawmakers should first consider revision of the finance penalty laws.

Many senators have expressed a desire to await further Supreme Court rulings on finance matters before writing new laws in this field.

Morrison has suggested the Legislature could first act on penalty matters and other corrective measures not in the finance field, then recess until after the court has ruled on pending matters.

Morrison has said he will include in the formal call, however, provisions allowing the Legislature to take up the matter of writing new finance laws.

Quick Decision Asked

Carpenter also said Wednesday he thinks the Legislature should decide the first day of the special session whether it wants to consider only those matters which the governor includes in the call, or broaden the scope of the special session.

Except for finance matters, Morrison has said he will include in the call only necessary corrective legislation and will not open the session to policy matters.

Carpenter said he will move first to have the lawmakers stand with the call issued by the governor—the route the Scottsbluff senator favors.

If it is indicated there is sufficient sentiment to broaden the call, he will move to have the Legislature adjourn sine die that first day, then reconvene under its own call to consider whatever issues a majority thinks should be undertaken.

Carpenter said he believes the Legislature should not get into policy decisions on such matters as the Kerr-Mills medical care program and driver education.

He thinks these programs (currently stymied by errors in the budget bill), and the bottle club bill, should be allowed to get under way as indicated by action of the 1963 Legislature.

"We ought to give them a chance to work for at least a year," Carpenter said.

EASTRIDGE

Be it ever so jumbled, there's no place like home. This is no suggestion that Eastridge residents have jumbled homes, but with the parties, traveling and guests, a definite possibility is that regular schedules are upset, and orderliness is a vague wish.

For the convenience of those having guests, we present a check list of items that should be considered.

Are there plenty of laundry supplies so clothes soiled by the trip can be washed?

Have you stocked up on that smoked herring your aunt is so fond of? And are you quite sure that your niece's pet Great Dane is really housebroken?

Of course this way of life is an exaggeration — for everyone knows that Suburban living is very relaxed in these modern times.

And spending a relaxing and fun-filled weekend recently were Eastridge residents, Mr. and Mrs. William Zeitz and sons Bill, Kurt and David.

This busy family spent four days cruising up and down the Mississippi River via houseboat with Mr. Zeitz' brother and sister-in-law and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zeitz and Chris and Julie of Wilmette, Ill.

Mrs. Zeitz and her sons also enjoyed another trip when they flew to Dubuque, Iowa, last Thursday to meet Mr. Zeitz.

The Zeitz family returned to their Eastridge home on Sunday.

There also are some football travelers in the news this week and they are Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Livengood.

Mr. and Mrs. Livengood departed Lincoln last Friday, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Elmont McKee and Mrs. Harry Carroll of Sioux City, Iowa, for a weekend in Minneapolis, Minn., and also to attend the Nebraska-Minnesota football game.

This traveling fivesome returned to their homes on Sunday evening.

Speaking of football games reminds us that there was an after-the-game party that we haven't yet mentioned.

The affair was at the home of Mrs. Jayne Anderson who was hostess to approximately 40 out-of-town and Lincoln guests after the Husker victory.

SUMMYSIDE ACRES

Today is Gary Martin's sixth anniversary. It seems, however, that Gary, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Martin, already has sampled birthday cake.

On Sunday his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kinrikuf and their son, Delbert of Wood River, were in Lincoln to help Gary celebrate at a family party.

Then, today, Gary will have the opportunity to blow out his six candles at a party attended by neighborhood playmates.

Gary's birthday well wishers will be Donnie and Laurie Poage, Karen and Gary Schwabauer, Patti and Matty Kamprath, Danny, Jimmy and Tod Hille and Gary's sisters, Pammy and Jacqueline.

INDIAN VILLAGE

Guests at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Marvin Herrick this week are Mrs. Herrick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Slocumb.

Mr. and Mrs. Slocumb arrived in Lincoln last Friday from Beach, N.D., and will be at the Herrick home until the end of the week.

Guest Is Noted Chemist

responsibility of checking through the numerous journals and chemical abstracts, which are condensations of chemistry papers, and the U.S. Patents Gazette. After finding articles pertaining to work being done by their firm, she would send it to the proper person attached to the work.

Mrs. Snell met her husband while she was attending Syracuse College, and he was attending Colgate College, both in New York.

After receiving her B.S. degree in math, she taught high school until Mr. Snell talked her into taking a course in chemistry at Barnard College.

She explains, "From there I sort of sneaked into the graduate school at Columbia."

Five years elapsed before she received her Ph.D. after once getting a Masters. Mrs. Snell took time out from college to start a family. She has one daughter, who unlike her parents, is a psychologist.

Her husband, then working on his Ph.D., took occasional clients, dividing his time between lecturing and working. His first client was a shipping company which was being sued for a shipment of hand-made lace, stained when delivered.

Dr. Snell tested to see if sodium chloride, or salt, was present in the stain, a sign that the lace had been damaged on its trip across the ocean. When he found none, it was concluded that the stains were not the fault of the shipping company.

From this first client, the Snells have built a research laboratory which occupies most of the 10 stories, and have another building, partially filled with their work. Various departments occupy their 125 employees, including research in detergents, allergies, bacteriology, foods, and chemistry.

Mrs. Snell commented, "As industry expands, so do its problems. Every year there are new products and improved products." Dr. and Mrs. Snell are usually right in on the ground floor of a lot of them.

New Officers Named

On the agenda at the meeting of the Capital City Newcomers Club meeting on Tuesday evening was the election of new officers.

Guiding the group through the coming year will be an official staff composed of Mrs. Fred Korcek, president; Mrs. Larry Martin, vice-president; Mrs. Eugene Blank, secretary, and Mrs. C. H. VanHouten, treasurer.

The group held its meeting at King's Party Room.

Town Talk

We'll just skim the news surface this morning—but we do have time to tell you of some guests who have arrived for a week's stay—of others who plan to be in town for the game—and plans for a dancing club party.

Our current guests are Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Porter of New York City who arrived Tuesday evening to spend a week as the guests of Mrs. Porter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jean R. Kinder.

And those weekend guests we mentioned are Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Marvin and their two children, Robert and Joan, who will be the Saturday guests of Mrs. Marvin's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James Swanson.

It will be the first party of the season for the Mr. and Mrs. Dancing Club when the members gather on Friday evening in the Terrace Room at Hotel Lincoln. We hear that the committee in charge of the arrangements has chosen "The Playboy Club" as a theme, and the committee, incidentally, includes Mr. and Mrs. Duane Larson, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Marlo Moore, Mr. and Mrs.

James Kopcka and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Landgren.

Just this moment learned that the Terpsichorean Club also will be dining and dancing at Hotel Lincoln this weekend—but on Saturday evening. The officers of the club are serving as the party committee, and included in the group are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pidecock, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Aksamit, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Long, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Reger.

see what I'm doing. The result is a little crease or sloppy pressing. What can I use in place of the press cloth? Mrs. H. P.

A. Notions counters have transparent pressing cloths. They are sheer enough to see through and yet still do the job.

Q. How can I cut an interlining for a coat when it isn't included in the pattern? Also, how do I attach it? Mrs. L. O.

A. Cut it from the lining pieces. Trim off seam allowances from front edges and hemline on coat and sleeve pieces. If sleeve is cut in two sections, only interline the top piece. Don't stitch darts, but slash first, overlap and then stitch. Instead of stitching seams, overlap them, stitch and trim the edges. Turn coat wrong side out. Slip interlining in place and baste the seams together loosely. Baste around armhole. Slip-stitch interlinhe does, he will be unable to ruff his two spades in dummy.

So he tentatively stops playing trumps and cashes four rounds of diamonds, West following suit all the way. When he then plays a spade to the ace, this becomes the position:

Declarer now plays the jack of clubs from dummy and East must find a discard. It does not matter whether he discards a spade or a heart; in either case, South makes the rest of the tricks.

Suppose East discards a spade at this point. Declarer overtakes the jack of clubs with the queen and then ruffs the five of spades in dummy. East's king falling on the trick and establishing South's queen.

Suppose East, as an alternative play, discards the king of hearts when the jack of clubs is led. In that case, South stays in dummy with the jack and ruffs the ten of hearts, East's ace falling on the trick and establishing dummy's queen.

You don't hardly see hands like this any more!

Today's Heroes? A Teen-Ager Is Shocked

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: If people wonder where the teen-age morals have gone, all they have to do is look at what they have given us to go by. What are we supposed to think when all the advertising reeks of sex, and mothers dress their daughters like little Lolitas? Who do you think are the "heroes" around town now? I'll tell you—Richard Burton, Christine Keeler and Mandy Rice-Davis. I assure you I am no prude, but I'm glad my parents equipped me with some decent morals.

SEVENTEEN IN BELFAST, MAINE
DEAR SEVEN TEEN:
And to your fine letter, may I add a hearty AMEN!

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who has been married four years, wears the wedding band I bought him but who covers it up completely with another ring?

SUSPICIOUS WIFE
DEAR SUSPICIOUS: I think he's probably covering up more than a wedding ring.

DEAR ABBY: A member of our family just came back from his vacation with a hair piece. He has been as bald as an eagle since he was about 30 and he went around like that for years, then all of a sudden, at the age of 55, he is sporting a full head of hair. It isn't even his color. When he did have hair it was sandy brown, but this wig is golden brown with red highlights in it. I don't have to tell you how ridiculous he looks. When we first saw him, we thought he was joking, or perhaps wearing it on a dare, but he thinks it looks great. We love this guy and wouldn't hurt his feelings for the world, but how can we tell him that he looks terrible?

HIS RELATIVES

DEAR RELATIVES: If he wanted your opinion, he would have asked you. If you really "love" him, say nothing.

DEAR ABBY: I am puzzled as to how a lady can presume to give advice on shaving. I will be 55 on my next birthday and have been shaving since I was 17. In the past 38 years I shaved once a day, and if I had to shave a second time I would need to call an anesthetist. I believe you are about as qualified to give advice on shaving as was my youngest son when he was 17. When I asked him if he'd started to shave yet, he replied, "Gee, Dad, I've been shaving for two years now and I cut myself both times." Respectfully.

Christine Lied, Bribe In Try To Put Negro Lover In Jail

London (AP) — A crown prosecutor said Wednesday Christine Keeler committed perjury—and bribed another witness to lie—in an attempt to put a discarded Negro lover behind bars. A male witness at the hearing told of getting into a fist fight with her.

A verdict of guilty could mean a long prison term for the red-haired party girl whose dalliance with John Profumo cost him his job as Britain's war minister and shook the Conservative government.

Prosecutor John Buzzard made his accusation at the opening of a court hearing to decide whether Christine and three others must stand trial on charges of perjury and conspiracy to subvert justice.

The maximum sentence for perjury is seven years. The penalty for subverting justice is indefinite under British law, and a judge can hand down whatever prison term he believes justified.

Lover Set Free

Christine's discarded lover, Jamaican jazz singer Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon, 32, was convicted June 7 of beating her up and was sentenced to three years. Seven weeks later an appeals court voided the conviction and set Gordon free.

The arrest of Christine, 21, her apartment-mate, Paula Hamilton-Marshall, 23; their housekeeper, Mrs. Olive Brooker, 56; and Jamaican Rudolph Fenton, 39, soon followed. All are free on bail.

In court, Miss Hamilton-Marshall's brother, John, testified that he slugged Christine around in the apartment April 17 several hours before Gordon made his appearance. Christine suffered a cut eye and bruises.

Hamilton-Marshall, 27, said the argument started over an accusation by Christine that he had been pawing through her private papers.

"I lifted my hand in a threatening gesture," said Hamilton-Marshall. "She said 'you would not dare.' So I hit her. I gave her a jab in the face. Then we really fought. She went for me and I went for her."

All Night

"We could have gone on all night like that, so I had to finish it. So I punched her round the eye and in the face and split her eyebrow. It bled. That was the finish of the fight."

Hamilton-Marshall said he then left the apartment.

More than four hours later, prosecutor Buzzard said, Gordon forced his way in and scuffled with Christine and Fenton. Also present was another friend, Peter Camacchio, 34.

Christine called the police and Gordon fled. She then swore out an assault charge against him.

At Gordon's trial, Christine, Miss Hamilton-Marshall and Mrs. Brooker made no mention of the fight with Miss Hamilton-Marshall's brother and said the injuries were inflicted by Gordon.

They also denied that Fenton and Camacchio were at the flat that night.

Turned Down

Buzzard said Christine paid Fenton 250 pounds ($700) to back up the story about Gordon and that he accepted. The prosecutor said Christine offered Camacchio 1,000 pounds ($2,800) to do the same, but he turned her down.

The prosecutor said the truth of the matter came out when police got hold of a tape-recording Christine had dictated in preparation for selling her life story in book form.

Buzzard said the recording was made by Robin Drury, then acting as the girl's business manager, and in it she admitted the case against Gordon was false.

Buzzard quoted Drury as telling the police Christine explained that she charged Gordon with assault "to get him off my back."

The preliminary hearing, which began Wednesday morning, is expected to last at least another two days.

Affirmation Of Election Requested

Blair Attorney Roy I. Anderson filed a brief with the Nebraska Supreme Court Wednesday requesting affirmation of a Washington County District Court ruling declaring him the legally elected county attorney.

Chester N. Sutton, also a Blair attorney, contends the district court erred when it dismissed his complaint that 57 votes were cast illegally in the November general election. He further contends Anderson was not lawfully elected to the county attorney's post because of the illegal ballots.

According to the lower court proceedings, Anderson, a Republican, defeated Sutton, a Democrat, by 26 votes.

But Sutton alleges votes cast at Ward Two in Blair should not have been counted because the Ward polling place — Crowell Memorial Home — was not lawfully designated as such.

Fifty-seven votes were cast in Ward Two — 45 for Anderson, nine for Sutton and three persons failed to vote for county attorney.

Rejection of the votes cast in Ward Two, Sutton noted, would result in his election. Anderson, however, in his brief, claims the election was a fair one and that the results of the vote of the legal electors favored him.

Belgian Parity

Brussels—Belgium has earmarked $12 million in this year's budget to meet farmers' demands for income equality with nonfarmers. Also proposed is farm-lease legislation, giving tenants an option to buy when their landlords sell.

51 Regents Scholars Enrolled At NU

Fifty-one of the top 100 scorers in the 1963 Regents examinations have been awarded the first four-year, full tuition scholarships at the University of Nebraska and are now enrolled for their first year of study. The other 49 eligible students are not attending the university.

Under the four-year scholarship plan, inaugurated by the Board of Regents last year, the 100 highest scoring Nebraska high school seniors are eligible to receive $204 per year for four years to be applied against tuition at the university.

All seniors ranking in the upper one-third of their classes scholastically may take the examinations. Last year 5,097 students from 431 Nebraska schools took the tests according to Eldon E. Teten, director of scholarships and financial aids.

The first four-year Regents scholarship winners:

Omaha—Stephen K. Boyd, Richard A. Katre, Francis T. Surber, Mark Brooks and James Johnson.
Lincoln—John C. Cooper, Ian C. Forster, David M. Geler, Charles R. Gertow, Victor L. Lacy, Lorena Tubb, Louise E. Ellis, Melvin A. King, Lawrence J. Abbott, John W. Kneass, Nadine Y. Kingman, Harold F. Moessner and John A. Rosenberger.

Other—Charles D. Hahn of Auburn, Harold Foster and Thomas Keal, both of Bellevue, Judith R. Beaver of Big Springs, Jean A. Spivey and John R. Van Campen, both of Broken Bow, Ruth C. Thomason of Hurler, David F. Hood and Lela L. Kennedy, both of Chadron, Gary D. Waiske of Falls City, Virgil Slett of Geneva, Erma L. Winterer of Gering, Robert B. Vaughn of Hastings, Don R. Rolaski of Kearney, Virginia Sue Brown of Keweenaw, Rosemary W. Deeds and G. R. Hildenbrandt, both of Lexington, Larry G. Rohls and Sherry Ann Wietchord, both of Nebraska City, Wesley N. Musser of Neligh, Lance L. Towle of Norfolk, James R. Adams, Doretta F. Darland, Thomas L. McKain and Alan F. Chatfield, all of North Platte, Phillip C. Boardman and Dale H. Nelson, both of Oakland, Robert E. Karvonen of Ord, Marilyn R. Kroeger of Ravenna, Frederick L. Leistrick of Rushville, William F. Prange of Toluak, Richard S. Elliott of Weeping Water and Hozar C. Weitzenkamp of West Point.

16 Named To Bar Assn. Policy Group

The names of 16 newly elected members of the House of Delegates of the Nebraska Bar Association were made known Wednesday.

They were elected by fellow attorneys from odd-numbered district court judicial districts and will attend the annual meeting of the House of Delegates in Omaha Nov. 6. The Bar Association holds its annual convention there the following two days.

Newly elected members:
First District—Dwight Grubbs of Auburn.
Third District—Robert A. Barlow, Thomas M. Devine, Dale E. Faberbrich and Charles Oldfather, all of Lincoln.
Fifth District—Gorey W. Hunsaker of Wahoo and Milton A. Mills Jr. of Oconto.
Seventh District—W. E. Garriaga of Neligh.
Ninth District—Daniel D. Jewell of Norfolk and Elmer C. Ralow of Neligh.
Thirteenth District—Mr. M. Maupin of North Platte and Ivan Van Steenbergh of Kimball.

POSTCARD

by Stan Klapal

Says the folder from the Mexican Tourist Bureau: "Taxco is quaint, sleepy and unspoiled. It has 15,000 inhabitants. Of these, 1500 are silver-smiths. Taxco uses a ton of silver each month."

The interesting thing about this sleepy town is that they have to import the silver. That is what is quaint.

If 1500 Taxcoquenos beat silver, the rest all beat drums. At 5:30 each morning they beat drums under my quaint windows.

"Who beats the drums?" I asked the sleepy waiter sleepily at coffee.

"The soldiers, senor."

"But why so early?"

"Soldiers must rise early. They are constantly in preparation."

Well, after two days of drum-beating, I rose in curiosity and despair. It occurred to me that drums might be the new secret weapon. Drum your enemies into insensibility.

The drumming had gone on for half an hour. The drums would start under the quaint window. They would fade away as the drummers marched up the street. I would just be getting back to sleep again when—boom! boom! Rattled boom! Back they came.

I got up and looked out the window. It was still dark. Six small boys were marching up and down with drums. They had a leader. Also a bugler. At intervals the bugler would let out a few disheartened notes.

At 6:30 they dispersed and I went back to sleep.

The siren at the lead and zinc mines announced the change of shifts.

I went back to sleep.

At 7 o'clock—bong! bong! bong! The church bells in the beautiful pink towers of Santa Prisca. The church built two centuries ago on top of the fabulous silver mine that poured a fortune into the pockets of Borda.

"God gives to Borda and Borda gives to God."

At 7 of a sleepless morning

CARMICHAEL

IT WAS JUST ANOTHER HAIRCUT UNTIL THAT SIXTH INNING---

I sort of wished the Almighty had been a little less generous with Mr. Borda.

I got up and went down to coffee.

No wonder Taxco is sleepy.

Taxco lies on hills. A hillside town of cobbled streets winding among the ancient adobes.

It is considered so quaint and sleepy and unspoiled that Mexico has made it a national monument. This means you cannot build skyscrapers or luxury hotels or serve hot dogs on the plaza.

About 28 years ago Bill A. Spralling came here and saw that it was truly quaint, sleepy and unspoiled. He gathered up the locals and taught them to work silver.

This put Taxco on the map, as you might say. The town lies halfway between Mexico City and Acapulco, the Miami Beach of Mexico.

The tour operators run a regular route every day—Mexico City to Cuernavaca for lunch. Taxco overnight. Acapulco.

Silver pours out of Taxco. Dollars pour in. With the dollars the quaint and unspoiled natives bought the loudest juke boxes I have ever heard. They bought drums and bugles and hammered at them harder than they did at silver.

How to bridge the tourist gap—and get foreigners to visit us in greater numbers—is a goal that interests both Washington and Lincoln.

KOUFAX SILENCES YANKEE BATS

Sandy Reluctant To Break Good Friend's SO Record

... 'DIDN'T HAVE EXCEPTIONAL STUFF'

New York (U) — "I almost thought it might just be better to tie the record. But I had to end the game."

So Sandy Koufax struck out pinch hitter Harry Bright, nailing down the opening game victory and breaking his old friend Carl Erskine's World Series strikeout record.

Bright was No. 15 for Sandy, and it came exactly 10 years to the day after old Dodger Erskine had struck out 19 against the Yankees.

Koufax drew first blood in the celebrated battle of left-handers as he outpitched Whitey Ford and got the Dodger off in front, 5-2.

He stood in the Dodger dressing room afterwards, leaning back against his locker, beads of sweat running down from his curly black hair, across his forehead and onto his eye lashes, as long and wavy as those of the pretty boy movie idols.

Feat Called 'Great Deed' By Erskine

New York (U) — "A great deed."

Those were Carl Erskine's first words when he shook hands with Sandy Koufax, the Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher who broke his World Series strikeout record.

Arm draped around Koufax's shoulder, Erskine said, "I'm proud of you. You know I all but gave you the record last year, but you went and got hurt."

The last was in reference to the fact Erskine felt Koufax would have accomplished the feat last year—if the Dodger left-hander hadn't been hurt and the Dodgers hadn't lost the pennant.

"Remember when Koufax first joined the club," said Erskine, now 36 and an insurance salesman in Anderson, Ind., where he also coaches the Anderson College baseball team. "He was wild as anything, but everyone knew he'd be great. He threw hard as hell."

Erskine then listed three reasons why he felt Koufax deserved to break the strikeout record.

"One, he was a teammate. Two, he's a Dodger. Three, he's probably the greatest strikeout artist in baseball history."

Koufax went into the ninth with a record-tying 14 strikeouts, then got Harry Bright with a fast ball on a 2-2 count for the final out and the record.

Did Erskine expect Koufax to break the record?

The reporters chorused "Yes."

"Hold up all 10 fingers, Sandy," shouted the photographer. "And Roseboro hold up five. That'll give us all 15 for the picture."

Koufax held up his hands, discovered that he had a bottle of beer in one hand, grinned and put the beer down. Then he posed with fingers extended, alongside catcher Johnny Roseboro, whose three-run homer settled the issue.

"When I came off after the eighth, I saw they had flashed on the score board that I had tied Carl's record. I came out for the ninth and I thought it just might be better if I just tied the record, and didn't break it. Carl is a good friend of mine and such a nice guy."

"But then, with Bright up, I had to get him out."

Koufax has come a long way from the hometown boy who joined the old Brooklyn Dodgers in 1955 as a 19-year-old wild man.

He merged as a super pitcher last year, still fast-but with two additions, a fine curve and remarkable control.

This year he won 25 and lost only five and had an ERA of 1.88.

Now he has his first World Series victory, a very convincing one, although he said, almost shyly.

"To tell the truth, I didn't think I had really exceptional stuff. I had real good control. But I didn't feel as good as I would have liked."

Of Tom Tresh's two-run homer in the eighth, he said:

"The ball Tresh hit was a good fast ball. After all, this team is going to get some runs. That is a tough line-up."

Sandy mopped his brow, and smiled:

"Honestly, it was a good fast ball. I thought my fast ball was even better at the end of the game."

Dodgers Win, 5-2; Roseboro Hits HR

... EX-YANK SKOWRON AIDS LA CAUSE

By OSCAR FRALEY

New York (UPI) — Dandy Sandy Koufax downed the mighty and favored New York Yankees with record book pitching and a three-run blast by John Roseboro Tuesday for a tense 5-2 victory which gave the Los Angeles Dodgers the opening game of the World Series.

The slender southpaw with the blazing fast ball struck out the first five hitters to face him, fanned a record total of 15 hitters and allowed but six hits before a roaring crowd of 69,000 whose cheers shook massive Yankee Stadium.

And the supposedly anemic bats of the battling Dodgers hammered out nine hits — including that payoff blow by Roseboro — to send Whitey Ford down to defeat as he gave up eight hits and five runs in five innings to suffer a record sixth Series loss.

There were a handful of heroes for the underdog Dodgers as they jumped into the lead by capturing the classic's opening contest.

Skowron Shines

Cheers resounded for Bill (Moose) Skowron — a Yankee himself at this time last year — as he drove in the first run and, in addition to that, the final Dodger tally in the third.

There were more for Tommy Davis who had three hits and a stolen base for the "weak hitters" from Baghdad on the Pacific.

They roared, too, for big Frank Howard when the massive outfielder started the Dodgers rolling by crashing a 460-foot double in that big second inning.

And Roseboro played a major role with, in addition to his big home run, a total of 18 putouts on strikeouts and fouls to smash the record of 14 formerly held by baseball greats Mickey Cochrane of the Tigers and Roy Campanella of Brooklyn.

Key Man

But the big man was Koufax — even though Tom Tresh walloped a home run with one on in the eighth inning to spoil his shutout.

Dandy Sandy, as he fired a final third strike past pinch hitter Harry Bright with two out in the ninth, with a total of 15 strikeouts, erased the 14-strikeout record established by Carl Erskine of Brooklyn.

Huskers Drill On Returns

By HAL BROWN

Nebraska's gridirers, with an eye on last week's statistics, spent considerable time Wednesday on punt returns.

"We checked our punt returns against Minnesota and found that we gained only 18 yards in running back 11 punts," Devaney noted. "This (punt returns) was the worst offensive play we had, so we worked on it Tuesday, we'll work on it today and we'll work on it again tomorrow," Devaney said Wednesday.

With punt return specialist Frank Solich sidelined for at least three weeks, the Huskers are working with Bob Hohn and Willie Ross in the two-deep spots and with Kent McCloughan in the short return slot.

Other NU punt return combinations would have Hohn and McCloughan deep with Ross short or with McCloughan and Hohn back and Duda in the short spot.

Devaney said the Huskers will begin concentrating on plays they plan to use against Iowa State Saturday and noted that the emphasis would be put on the running attack.

"We have been successful with our running attack in the first two games and plan to concentrate on it for Iowa State," Devaney said.

"We feel that we have a versatile running attack with several backs capable of breaking away for long gains."

Fine Slapped On Auerbach

New York (U) — Walter Kennedy, the new president of the National Basketball Association, wasted no time in showing he was boss Wednesday when he fined Arnold (Red) Auerbach, volatile coach of the Boston Celtics $500 for "conduct contrary to NBA rules."

Auerbach was assessed the heavy penalty after being involved in a dispute with referee Mendy Rudolph during Tuesday night's exhibition game between Boston and the New York Knickerbockers at Ocean side, N.Y. Rudolph called two technical fouls against Auerbach and ordered him from the floor. Auerbach refused to leave. Boston won 95-92.

When advised of the fine by The Associated Press, Auerbach was almost speechless for a change. He said he hadn't been notified and said there must be some mistake because he never heard of a $500 fine in the NBA.

But Kennedy said the $500 was correct and that Auerbach had been notified by a telegram before the press was informed.

"That's got to be wrong — it must be $50," said Auerbach.

Omaha Tilt Moved Up

The battle between unbeaten football powers Boys Town and Bishop Ryan has been moved up to tonight and will be played at Omaha Municipal Stadium. The game had originally been set for Friday night at Boys Town, which has a seating capacity of only 3,000.

Speedy Count Wins

Lexington, Ky. (U) — Speedy Count, owned by Trader Horn Inc., of Miami, Fla., took another step toward the 2-year-old trotting championship Wednesday with an easy victory in the $14,960 Saul Camp Memorial Trot at the Lexington Trots.

Liston Apologizes For Actions After Return

... SONNY EVEN SMILES

Denver (U) — Continuous questioning about racial bombings in the United States was the reason for his abrupt flight from London Sept. 18, heavyweight boxing champion Charles Sonny Liston told a news conference Wednesday.

Liston said: "Everywhere I went, they would ask me over and over, 'What about the Alabama bombing? What do you think of it, Sonny?' I've never been afraid in the ring, but I used to get real nervous when they'd be asking me about the race problem because I just didn't know how to answer them."

Referring to a statement attributed to him at the Denver airport upon his return, that he was "ashamed to say I'm in America," Liston said Wednesday, "That is not what I meant."

Liston said what he meant was "I'm ashamed of the way America's acting" in the racial bombings.

Gives Account

In a detailed account of his sudden departure from the lucrative British exhibition tour, Liston said:

"One night we left some place on a plane—went from the plane to a train—from the train to a car—and from the car to horseback. With the appearance dates getting so tight, I couldn't get any sleep."

"I had a tremendous headache from all the questions and I just decided to come back home. I didn't bother to ask anybody—I just told the people traveling with me, 'My daughter's sick. We're going home.'"

At that time Liston announced his daughter was sick, Denver reporters learned that the daughter, Eleanor, 13, was attending school and was not ill.

'Real Tired'

In explaining his statement about being ashamed in America, Liston said, "When I got back here in Denver, I was real tired and I didn't feel like talking to anyone. I didn't know anyone would be at the airport and I didn't have anything ready to say to anyone. But the first question asked of me as soon as I got off the plane was, 'What do you think of the Alabama bombings?'"

"And I tell you quite frankly I blew up. I think you know now why I came back and how I felt. If I hurt anybody's feelings, I'm sorry."

Although the news conference started under tension, as it progressed Liston smiled and even wisecracked when a sports writer asked about a London report that he left angrily because "two broads" had been planted in his room.

Liston said, "No, I might have resented it if he didn't send up two."

Well-Dressed

Liston appeared at the news conference nattily dressed in a blue shadow-striped suit with velvet trim on the collar and cuffs. A brilliant ring, with a dime-sized collection of small diamonds glistened on his left little finger. He carried a black gold-headed cane.

He said he had carried the cane with him always since a fan in England gave it to him.

"He said his mother gave it to him and I'm sure it meant a lot to him," Liston said.

Among other subjects touched on at the conference:

Jack Nilon of Philadelphia is "still my adviser but he doesn't do the fighting and I tell him what to do. I let him know I'm the key to the treasury."

Liston was to fly Wednesday night to Philadelphia to confer with Nilon about a possible resumption of the interrupted European tour.

"Coming home to Denver and the reception I got made me happier than winning the Las Vegas fight against Paterson," he said.

A fight with Cassius Clay will be held "as soon as the government will let me." The reference was to Liston's income tax position which would mean a fight in the current calendar year would net him little money.

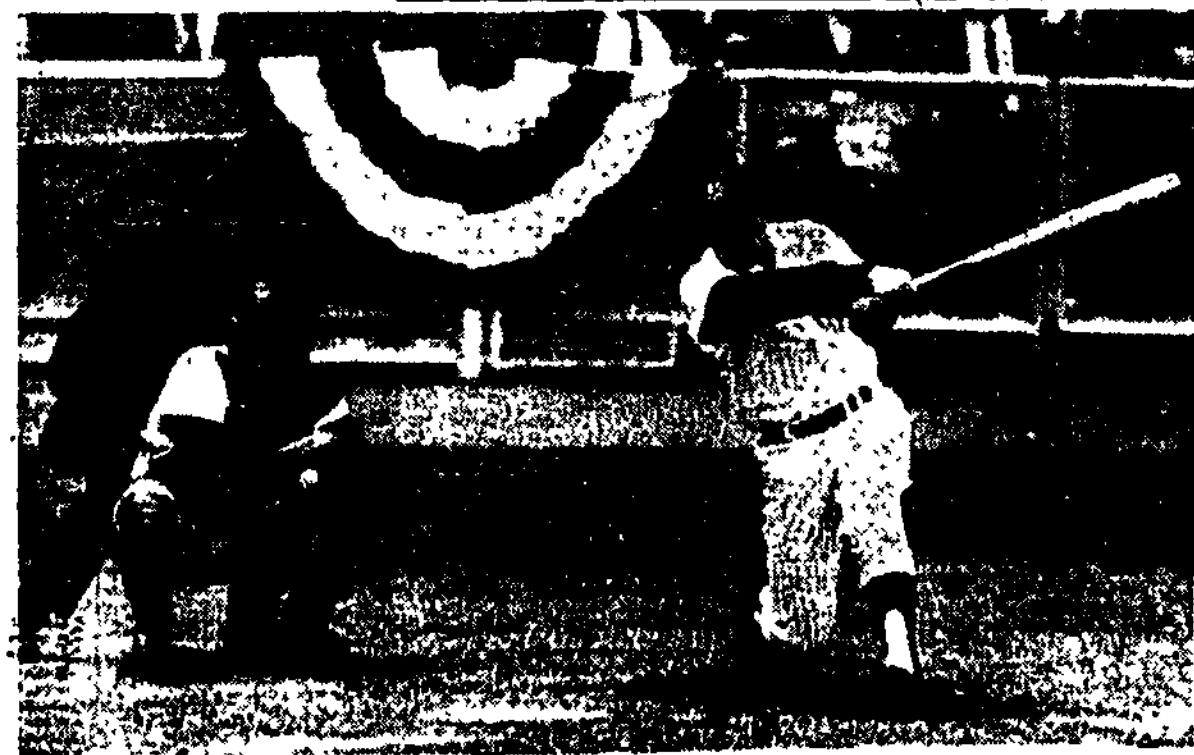

As to exhibition trips, "Wherever I get paid, that's where I must go."

Just One

About his family, Liston said flatly he had only one daughter, Eleanor. There were reports recently that he had two daughters.

He added: "Now I just want to clear up a few things regarding my personal life. You all know my wife Jerry. My years with her have been the best of my life. 'She was with me before I had anything and I'd rather go back to nothing than lose her. My daughter Eleanor lives with us at our home here in Denver."

"We are all stay-at-homes and I like it when we can all be together and not be traveling on the road."

ONE OF 15 VICTIMS... Mantle goes down swinging.

Revision Of Divisions Needed For New Loop

The 1964 start of the proposed metropolitan high school league hinges on revision of the divisions of the conference.

The original breakdown found Grand Island and Hastings, the two Big Ten teams invited to join the metro loop, in separate divisions.

The outstate schools want to be placed in the same division and their membership in the new loop may depend on whether a satisfactory realignment can be made.

The original plan called for Hastings to be included with Lincoln Northeast and South, Benson, Central, Westside and Creighton Prep of Omaha.

Grand Island was to be in competition with Lincoln High, Southeast, Bellevue, Tech, North, and Bishop Ryan.

If the Grand Island-Hastings request to be placed in the same division isn't fulfilled the two schools may elect to remain in the Big Ten, leaving the Lincoln and Omaha schools as charter members of the metropolitan league.

The eight-man constitution committee which met Tuesday is to meet again in two weeks to iron out the final details. The committee will report to the superintendents of the eight school systems involved Nov. 10.

NU's Rushing 7th In Nation

... 5TH IN TOTAL DEFENSE

New York (AP)—There's a distinct Ivy League tinge in the first set of team football statistics issued this season by the NCAA Service Bureau.

After just one game each, Pennsylvania is the national major college leader in total offense rushing offense and scoring. Princeton leads in total defense and rushing defense and Cornell in punting.

Rutgers, a favorite playmate of the Ivies, is tops in forward pass defense and Columbia, Harvard, Dartmouth and Yale are among the leaders in various team statistical departments. The non-Ivy leader in forward passing offense is Southern Methodist.

Nationally, Nebraska ranks seventh in rushing offense with an average of 263 yards per game. NU is fifth in total defense permitting 106.5 yards per game. The Huskers have allowed only 29 yards rushing per game to rate fourth in the country.

Top Golfers At Whitmarsh Open

Chestnut Hill, Pa. (AP)—Golf's "big three" of Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Julius Boros will lure most of the gallery and probably grab the top money in the $125,000 whitmarsh Open golf tournament that starts Thursday.

The 72-hole event continues through Sunday at the 6,807-yard, par 72 Valley Country Club course with only the World Series and a hundred football games, college and pro, to vie for public interest.

The first prize of $26,000, biggest on the Professional Golfers' Association tour, has lured the best of the golfing tourists, including Gary Player of South Africa and New Zealand's British Open king, left-handed Bob Charles.

The tournament also serves as a tuncup for the Ryder Cup matches next week in Atlanta. The tight course, with its 120 traps and premium on driving accuracy, is expected to afford no special advantage to long hitters such as Palmer and Nicklaus.

LNE Sophomores Cop 24-6 Victory

Lincoln Northeast's Derald Ferguson ran three touchdowns to spark the Rocket sophomore team to a 24-6 victory over the Beatrice Reserves Wednesday night.

Northeast jumped to a 12-0 lead in the first quarter and picked up the other half of its scoring in the final quarter.

May Announces Fitness Meeting

Lincoln Mayor Dean Petersen has announced that the first Fall meeting of his Council on Physical Fitness will be held at 11:30 a.m. Friday at the Student Union.

Mayor Petersen has established an excellent precedent for his program with a daily 1½ mile hike before breakfast.

Dr. John Thompson of the Lincoln Public Schools has served three consecutive terms as chairman of this committee.

YOUTHFUL SWIMMING VETERANS

Jack Cook (center), Lincoln Swim Club board member, presents achievement awards to Mrs. Georgene Frank (left), representing her son Dick, and Jack Little. The awards are presented to LSC members who have competed at least five years and have completed the age group swimming program through age 16. Dick was one of the charter members and has been swimming for seven years. Jack has been in the program six years.

ISU Emphasizing Offense For NU

Ames, Iowa (AP)—Offense got most of the emphasis in a rugged two-hour practice session for the Iowa State football team Wednesday.

The first and second units worked in a simulated scrimmage against the reserves, polishing the plays they'll use in their Big Eight Conference opener at Nebraska Saturday.

Dunkel Looks For Huskers To Bounce Cyclones By 20

... TCU-ARKANSAS CLOSEST HEADLINE

By DICK DUNKEL

While Oklahoma and Wisconsin are resting this week, some of the other college football leaders will be up to their nose-guards in trouble.

Texas Christian expects the closest battle in its call upon Arkansas.

And a lot of woe may await Georgia Tech at LSU, Ohio State at Indiana, and Navy at Michigan. Slipping Southern California meets a comer in Michigan State.

Other top ranking teams should roll.

Members of the Top 13 who'll compete next Saturday show the following Dunkel index pars over their opponents, indicating what they will have to do in order to maintain current ratings:

Alabama 42 over Vanderbilt.

Southern Cal over Michigan.

Ole Miss 22 over Houston.

Georgia Tech 9 over LSU.

Nebraska 20 over Iowa State.

Ohio State 11 over Indiana.

TCU 3 over Arkansas.

Texas 17 over Oklahoma State.

Memphis State 29 over Tulsa.

Navy 13 over Michigan.

The higher rating team has won in 73.0% of the 429 games, not counting ties, covered here to date. Teams set their own ratings through progressive indexing of score difference relative to rating of opposition.

Pars in other big games of the week:

Friday night

Miami, Fla., 15 over Tulane.

Boston College 19 over Detroit.

G. Washington 7 over Citadel.

Saturday

EAST—Penn State even with Rice, Syracuse 15 over Holy Cross, Pitt 9 over California, Dartmouth 18 over Penn, Princeton 6 over Columbia, Harvard 9 over Rutgers, Yale 9 over Brown.

MIDWEST—Minnesota 16 over Army, Missouri 24 over Idaho, Notre Dame 7 over Purdue, Kansas 14 over Wyoming.

SOUTH—Florida 28 over Richmond, Duke 17 over Maryland, Oregon 17 over Virginia, Miss. State 3 over Tennessee, Auburn 7 over Kentucky, N.C. State 5 over Clemson, Georgia even with S. Carolina, N. Carolina 20 over Wake Forest.

SOUTHWEST—Air Force 14 over SMU, Texas A&M 12 over Texas Tech, Arizona State 11 over Colo. State.

FAR WEST—Baylor 2 over Oregon State, Washington even with Iowa, UCLA 1 over Stanford.

Schedule with ratings follows:

Towns Offer Last Report In Contest

Fifty-five communities have submitted their final reports in the 1963 Nebraska Community Betterment Contest and judges will meet in Lincoln next week to select finalists, the Nebraska Resources Division reported Wednesday.

Eventually to be selected and honored will be the four most progressive Nebraska communities.

Principal speaker at an awards day banquet and program Oct. 24 at the Nebraska Center in Lincoln will be Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges.

A judging committee meeting in Lincoln next Tuesday and Wednesday will select 24 finalists—six communities in each of the contest's four population classes. Two members of the judging committee then will visit each of the communities sometime between Oct. 9 and 11.

Identities of the grand champion community and the four first place winners will not be announced until the awards banquet.

City Of Future Described By NU's Horsbrugh

Dallas (UPI) — Patrick Horsbrugh, professor of architecture at the University of Nebraska the past four years, said "the city of the future will be a concept of easy interchange and movement."

He said a primary transportation problem of many cities now is how to get people to ride buses and leave their automobiles at home.

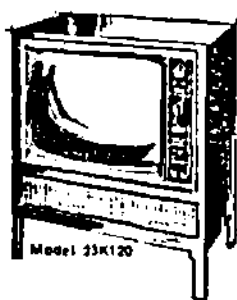

Horsbrugh said Americans may not be as prosperous in years to come as they are now because of increased competition from Russia and the European Common Market. He said Americans may be more willing to ride to work on buses then.

"The future of urban economics is on the streets rather than in the buildings," he said.

Horsbrugh has lectured at Harvard, the University of North Carolina, the University of Illinois, and the University of Toronto.

Early Civil Rights Action 'Possibility'

Washington (UPI) — Chairman Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., of the Senate Commerce Committee Wednesday raised the possibility of earlier-than-expected Senate action on the most controversial part of President Kennedy's civil rights program.

At the same time, a House Judiciary subcommittee formally approved the President's omnibus civil rights bill. It had tentatively approved the measure last week.

Magnuson said his committee probably will clear the Senate version of the controversial public accommodations bill next Tuesday.

Bar Discrimination
It would bar discrimination in hotels, restaurants and other privately owned public facilities. It is opposed by a number of Republicans as well as Southern Democrats.

Magnuson said the Senate may jump the gun and start debate on his committee's bill without waiting for a House-approved civil rights bill. Democratic leaders would prefer to wait and avoid an early floor showdown with Southern civil rights foes.

Magnuson said the Democratic Policy Committee must make the decision on floor strategy. But he said it was possible the Senate may not want to wait until mid-November for the House bill.

Two Weeks
That bill was formally approved by the House Judiciary subcommittee, headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y. He said his full Judiciary Committee would meet Tuesday, with hopes of clearing the package bill in about two weeks.

The bill is stronger in nearly every way than that asked by the President in June. Its public accommodations section would "cover nearly every kind of business you can imagine," Celler said.

He indicated that the full committee probably will change the measure in some ways to gain more Republican support.

SISTERS STAGE SWITCHEROO

7 Arrested After Narcotics Traffic Probe In Omaha

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha vice squad disclosed it is wrapping up a three-week investigation into narcotics traffic in Omaha.

Sgt. Louis Kostka, head of the squad, said seven persons had been arrested and more arrests were planned.

Police maintained an around-the-clock stakeout for 21 days to gather information on what they called a "rapidly growing narcotics organization."

Earlier this week officers seized "various types of injectable narcotics, including morphine," several hypodermic needles and spoons used to heat the drugs.

Evidence was taken at several locations.

The seven arrested, both men and women, were held on suspicion of using or selling narcotics.

Sgt. Kostka said their names would be withheld until other suspects are picked up.

Statewide Safety Conference Scheduled Here Dec. 10-11

What is regarded as the first genuine statewide conference on safety will be held here Dec. 10-11, officials announced this week.

While other conferences have appealed to statewide participants and organizations interested in one field of safety, the Nebraska Accident Prevention Institute will delve into home, industrial, transportation (traffic), farm, utility, and water, recreation, and firearms safety, according to Rollin Schneider, University of Nebraska safety specialist.

Safety precautions and safety education and research in regard to chemicals, poisons and electricity will cut across the various areas to be covered during the two-day meeting at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education. Some 250-300 persons are expected to attend the conference, which is being sponsored by 20 different organizations in Nebraska.

Interested persons will have an opportunity to attend a general session each day, along with a luncheon open to all conference participants, while the balance of the time will be spent in special sessions devoted to the individual broad areas of safety, Schneider noted. An array of noted authorities in each field to be discussed will be on hand to discuss new developments, he concluded.

119 Calves Rounded Up After Mishap

Humboldt (AP) — Richardson County Deputy Sheriff E. W. Hollens Jr., and four assistants completed an unscheduled roundup of 119 head of Hereford calves.

The calves were dumped out on the countryside when the stock truck which was hauling them rolled over while standing still when the cattle all shifted to one side at about the same time.

The weight of the stock knocked the top out of the truck. One calf was killed and the rest ran wild. The cattle were from the American Hereford Farms at Tonganoxie, Kans., and were being taken to Chicago.

Roy L. Reynolds, the truck driver, and another driver were en route with the calves when the lead driver stalled his truck on Highway 73-75. Reynolds pulled up behind and halted on the shoulder. While he was parked there, the truck rolled over.

The deputy sheriff and his four helpers rounded up the calves on horseback. Helping were Bill Lyons, Duane Elske, Keith Wheeler and Don Ray Monnette.

Opinion Sought On Responsibility For Fire Drills

The office of the state fire marshal has requested an attorney general's opinion specifying its responsibility for enforcing monthly fire drills in Nebraska schools.

The fire marshal's office believes many schools are not following the law which requires such drills. The schools are required to file reports on the number of drills held.

Excluding Lincoln and Omaha, 167 of the 600 school systems did not have any drills last school year, while another 224 had no more than three.

School fires in Nebraska between 1950 and 1960 caused $1.5 million damage, although no child has ever lost his life in such a blaze.

Fairmont Foods Pays 25 Cents Share Dividend

Omaha (AP) — Fairmont Foods Company paid a quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share on common stock and 62½ cents per share on junior preferred stock for the period ended Aug. 30, 1963.

E. D. Edquist, chairman of the board, told the stockholders that earnings per share of common stock had risen from 72 cents to 85 cents in the last year.

Net income for the six months ended Aug. 31 amounted to $2,469,332, compared with $2,101,605 for the comparable six months in 1962, the report said.

Edquist said the statement of consolidated net income does not reflect a stock exchange agreement with the stockholders of Blue Star Foods, Inc., Rockford, Ill., which is not part of the Fairmont organization. He said, however, that Blue Star sales and earnings so far this year compare favorably with a year ago and will contribute to the overall picture in the next quarterly report.

Commonwealth Low On Street Lighting Project

Commonwealth Electric Co. was apparent low bidder at $12,700 for an ornamental street lighting district for Hoppe Heights residential subdivision near 48th and LaSalle.

Valachi Tells Of Doublecross Turning Into Mob Power Struggle

Washington (AP) — Joseph Valachi, spilling the secrets of the crime brotherhood called La Cosa Nostra, told senators Wednesday that a gangland doublecross backfired as overlords of the New York mobs turned on each other in a fierce battle for power.

He told of a secret list that marked for doom such underworld big shots of 30 years ago as Al Capone, Frank Costello, Charles Lucky Luciano, Vito Genovese, Vincent Mangano and Dutch Schultz.

And he told of the slaying of Salvatore Maranzano, the man who drew up the list, killed by his rivals after a brief reign as Cosa Nostra's "boss of all bosses."

Maranzano grabbed power, Valachi said, after lieutenants of rival boss Giuseppe Masseria gunned down their own chief in a Coney Island restaurant.

40-60 Casualties
"His own lieutenants wanted to do it themselves," Valachi told investigating senators. That ended a 14-month gang war Valachi said cost Masseria's outfit 40 to 60 dead.

But five months later, Valachi said, the same men got Maranzano.

Back for the third chapter of his tale of crime, Valachi told the Senate Investigations subcommittee about a mass meeting of New York hoodlums at which Maranzano declared peace and installed himself as the head man.

He described a five-night banquet which honored Maranzano and his "soldiers" and raised $115,000 for the coffers of the Cosa Nostra chief.

"I never got a nickel," Valachi said. He said Maranzano planned to use the money to send his soldiers "back to the mattress" — back to warfare to wipe out the men on his death list.

Books 'Closed'
Valachi said "the books were closed" on new members of Cosa Nostra from 1931 until 1954.

Easy to use, tasteless, odorless, harmless to plates and gums. Money-back guarantee. At your drug counter.

FALSE TEETH RELINER

When the brotherhood began enlisting again, he said: "Frank Sculise and Albert Anastasia, they brought in about 200. They commercialized it. Some of them paid up to $40,000. That was one of the charges Sculise and Albert Anastasia had against them."

Both men were killed in 1937.

"Who paid the big money to get in?" Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., asked.

Valachi mumbled, "Jojo." Then he told McClellan, "You have the names there."

$25 Monthly
McClellan said the details would come up later in the hearings, which were recessed until next Tuesday. Valachi testified that Cosa Nostra "soldiers" still must pay dues of $25 a month to their "families" — even while in prison, but he said the Vito Genovese family — to which he belonged — abolished dues in 1959.

The investigation is designed to produce evidence that will help win passage to new anticrime laws sought by the Justice Department.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy wants Congress to authorize wiretapping in the war against organized crime, and to pass a law that would grant witnesses against the gangs immunity from prosecution, while denying them the right to refuse testimony on grounds of self-incrimination.

Valachi picked up his story of the gangland of the early 1930s with the doublecross death of Masseria.

He said Masseria was taken to a restaurant at Coney Island. "Vito, Charles Lucky and Ciro Terranova, they got him to go there."

McClellan: "The Maranzano crowd didn't do that killing?"

By His Own
Valachi: "That's right, it was his own people. Vito, Charles Lucky, Ciro and a fellow named Cheech. About five days after that there was peace. Joe Masseria, he was shot in the restaurant."

"By surprise?" asked Sen. Carl Mundt, R-S.D.

Valachi: "No, they were sitting down, talking."

Mundt: "Was anyone caught?"

Valachi: "No, no one was caught."

At that point, Detective Sgt. Ralph Salerno of the New York City police read the record of Masseria's slaying.

"At 3:30 p.m. on April 15, 1931, Giuseppe Masseria, alias Joe the Boss was shot in the back and head by unknown persons who escaped."

Cause of death: six gunshot wounds, head and body. Case active."

Salerno said he couldn't tell the senators everything police

"As I have explained, these are all active cases," he said.

"In view of the new leads which have recently been made available, they are under active investigation at this time."

Salerno said New York prosecutors fear detailed testimony on the slayings would prejudice any trials that might grow out of the information Valachi has given them.

McClellan asked Valachi how many men died in the gang war that ended after Masseria's slaying.

Lopsided Score

Valachi: "Senator, I got the score. The score was we lost one and they lost 40 to 60."

McClellan: "The score was 40 to 60 people were killed?"

Valachi: "That's right."

McClellan: "Do you know the name of the one that was killed in your group?"

Valachi: "We lost the one in Chicago, Joe Aiello. They told me Al Capone got him."

With Masseria dead, Valachi said, Maranzano called a mass meeting of 400 to 500 persons at a hall on Washington Avenue.

"He talked about Masseria and his group, that they were killing people without justice. Now it's gonna be different, he said."

Boss Of Bosses

"First we have the boss of all bosses, which is myself," Valachi quoted Maranzano.

Valachi said Maranzano traced the Cosa Nostra chain of command—with himself at the top.

Then, Valachi said, Maranzano invited the "soldiers" who were on his side in the war with the Masseria men to join his Cosa Nostra "family."

Valachi raised his hand. "Were all of those people at that meeting, were they all members of Cosa Nostra?"

asked McClellan.

"Oh, yes," said Valachi. "I saw faces I never saw. They had to be."

Next on the Cosa Nostra social calendar: the big banquet.

It lasted five days. Guest would start arriving early in the evening and stay until near dawn, Valachi said.

Return

Valachi said the soldiers—about 15 of them—were celebrating their return to circulation after spending the gang war months in hiding, emerging only to strike at rival mobsters.

It also was a fund-raising affair, Valachi said.

McClellan: "So it was a banquet to raise money and also pay tribute to Maranzano as the boss of bosses?"

Valachi: "Right. He sent 1,000 tickets to Al Capone and Al Capone sent $6,000. He sent 1,000 tickets to Buffalo and Buffalo sent $6,000. I understand Charley Lucky himself sent $6,000. Charley Buffalo, he was very close to Maranzano, he told me they got $115,000. I never got a nickel."

Doesn't Anybody Want Old Army Battle Flag?

Florence, Italy (AP)—Does no one want the old World War II battle flag of the U.S. 349th Combat Infantry Regiment?

After two years of wasted time and postage trying to give the banner back, Franco Vettori of Florence is beginning to wonder.

The flag was among war-front leftovers and reserve dump supplies of the U.S. Army which were collected in a warehouse at Leghorn in 1946. There were old jeeps, rusted cannon, crates of supplies.

Bought Crate
When the U.S. Logistic Command offered them for sale at public auction, Vettori bought a crate labeled electric equipment.

It lay around the storeroom of his shop until 1961 when he opened the crate to see what he had inside, with the electric parts, was the battle flag wrapped in waterproof paper.

On one side was the spread-winged eagle with a laurel branch in one claw and an arrow in the other. Beneath were the words "Liberty and Rights." On the other side were three ribbons naming the regiment's military campaigns.

Vettori said that over the past two years he had written to President Kennedy, the U.S. Army, the Washington office of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and everybody else he could think of, offering to give the banner to whomever might be its rightful owner. He is still willing.

But so far, he said, no one had told him who wants it, or where to send it.

The trouble may be, said Vettori, that all his letters are in Italian and that the recipients don't understand them.

Conservative Has Party Convention Slated In Wichita

Wichita, Kan. (AP)—A convention will be held here Nov. 2 to organize a new conservative political party, Oscar N. Davis, chairman of the movement, said Wednesday.

Davis said the convention is being held to "insure that conservatism will be represented on the ballot in 1964" in Kansas.

The convention will elect officers and file with the secretary of state, enabling it to have candidates on the ballot at the next general election, Davis explained. Kansas law permits a new party to nominate by convention.

First Lady Needs Oxygen On Flight

Athens, Greece (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy needed a whiff of oxygen Wednesday on the last leg of a jet liner trip that brought her to Athens for a 15-day vacation in Greece.

Wearing the American First Lady asked for the oxygen and received it from a small, portable tank while the plane was cruising at 29,000 feet. Nevertheless, she was smiling broadly as she stepped from the plane ramp at Athens airport, kissed her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, and greeted other waiting officials and friends.

Only a short time before the landing, Mrs. Kennedy had retired to her special berth in the first class section of the Trans World Airways liner for the oxygen treatment. She was feeling discomforted. The purser warned that passengers to extinguish cigarettes. Oxygen is an inflammable gas.

Not Sick
A Secret Service man traveling with Mrs. Kennedy said the First Lady was not ill, but was tired and affected by the altitude. Oxygen sometimes is given to overcome fatigue.

A stewardess who gave Mrs. Kennedy the small tank said the First Lady herself explained she was very tired. Actually, only a small amount was used, the stewardess said.

The six other first class passengers were enjoying luncheon. The six felt no discomfort in the cabin. Mrs. Kennedy did not eat the lunch and returned almost untouched a proffered glass of milk.

She quickly recovered and returned to her seat, seemingly having no further difficulty.

Mrs. Kennedy spent most of the time on the transatlantic leg on the almost 11-hour journey resting in the special berth.

First Time
A TWA spokesman said it was the first time a berth had been set up on one of its new fast jets. It took up four first class seats.

Mrs. Kennedy had breakfasted just before landing for an hour's stopover at Rome. She spent the time in an airport VIP lounge.

Mrs. Kennedy showed no signs of difficulty when she stepped off the ramp for the airport welcome at Athens in bright 82 degrees sunshine to begin a rest and recuperating vacation.

She beamed and gave a tiny model of the White House to 12-year-old Chrissanthemi (Mimi) Papacotsis of Messina, a heart condition victim who underwent delicate surgery in the United States after Mrs. Kennedy learned of her plight while visiting Greece in June 1961.

Now smiling and fully recovered, Mimi came to the airport with her mother to welcome her benefactor.

Curie, drove from the airport with Mrs. Kennedy and Princess Radziwill to see them from the airport with Mrs. Kennedy and Princess Radziwill.

The glittering yacht Christina waited to take her on an Aegean-Mediterranean cruise. It was visible in Glyphada Bay from the road Mrs. Kennedy took from the airport to her villa. The 303-foot white yacht, owned by another millionaire shipowner, Aristoteles Onassis, was at the disposal of the visiting First Lady for a cruise expected to take her later this week to the islands of Crete, Rhodes and Lesbos, near the Turkish coast.

A Greek navy boat rode on patrol at Cavouri Bay, keeping the nearby waterway to the villa under guard. Police on foot watched the pinelined roadway and entrance to the villa.

Mrs. Kennedy went into seclusion at the villa, owned by a Greek shipping magnate, Markos Nomikos. The villa is

House Okays New 'Junket' Funds

Washington (UPI)—Amid shouts of "Junketer" and "shut up," House members Wednesday authorized for themselves a new round of trips, investigations, and official expenses at a total cost to taxpayers of about $1.2 million.

Among the items approved was an added $600 "stationery allowance" for each of the 435 members. This raised to a record $2,400 a year the amount a member may spend in the House stationery store, which sells at wholesale prices or below. If he does not use the full allowance, the congressman may draw in cash.

Some members saw the action as evidence Congress will still be in session at Christmas. They noted that the stationery store carries a nice line of such handy seasonal items as Christmas cards, leather goods and pens.

OK To Go

In another sign that fall has arrived, the Commerce and Agriculture Committees were authorized to send delegations to scheduled international meetings on communications (Geneva), plane fares (Rome), and food and agriculture (also Rome).

Funds were voted for inquiries into research, agriculture, interstate taxes, banking and some other matters. Extra allowances were provided for members' official telephone and telegraph bills and for stamps.

The added travel authority touched off one of the sharpest exchanges in recent House history, featuring Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, the well-known economist, in the anti-junket role and Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., in a spirited defense of legislative work trips abroad.

Returnees Going

Gross asked for what purpose members of the Agriculture Committee, of which Cooley is chairman, were planning additional travel. He noted acutely that some of the members only recently returned a session of what he called "the granddaddy of all junketing organizations," the Interparliamentary Union.

This brought Cooley to his feet with a roar. He said he and about 19 other House and Senate members attended the meeting, at Belgrade, and that everybody worked hard.

"Why don't you go?" he demanded of Gross. "any member can go. It's not a junketing organization. We work. But you just sit back here sniping, that's all you do. If you don't want to go, shut up about it!"

He Ought To Know
Gross shot back that Cooley ought to know, as he had attended every session of the Interparliamentary Union for the past 15 or 16 years.

"And I'm going to continue to snipe," he concluded.

With that, members laughed, called the roll to establish a quorum, and shoved through the package of housekeeping bills without record vote. There were boos when Gross sought a roll call on one of the bills and cheers when he failed to obtain it.

Haiti In Path Of 'Killer'

Miami, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane Flora, a well organized tropical killer, aimed 140-mile-an-hour winds at the heart of Haiti Wednesday night.

The season's sixth hurricane had swung to a northwest course late Wednesday and was dawdling along at nine miles per hour, with a slightly more northerly direction indicated.

This course ended a threat to Jamaica, but small craft was advised to remain in port from Jamaica and eastern Cuba to Mona Passage, between the Dominican Republic and Puerto Rico.

Flora was estimated to be near latitude 15.8 north and longitude 71.1 west or about 200 miles south southwest of Santo Domingo City, and 210 miles southeast of Port au Prince, Haiti.

The storm was expected to hit the center of the Haitian peninsula—an arm of land extending from Port au Prince west—about midnight Thursday.

"People in the area of hurricane warnings should take immediate precautions for the protection of life and property against hurricane force winds, torrential rains, tides 8 to 10 feet above normal and very heavy surf," the Weather Bureau at San Juan said.

Winds were expected to begin increasing along the south coast of Haiti shortly after daybreak and reach hurricane force about 2 p.m.

"Hurricane Flora is a dangerous and well-organized storm," the advisory said, "shipping in its path should exercise extreme caution."

Flora killed 17 persons as it raked the island of Tobago, off the Venezuelan coast, then continued on a west-northwest course in the Caribbean until late Wednesday, when it slowed from 14 to 9 miles per hour and swung toward the northwest.

THEY MUST ANSWER

Showing up at the Des Moines, Iowa, police station Wednesday to answer in juvenile court were Mrs. Betty Calvert, 34, left, and Mrs. Wanda Cameron, 34. Three of their children were found wandering on an outlying business district street at 1:30 a.m. Both mothers are divorced, both, according to police, are receiving aid to dependent children. They said they left the children with a babysitter while they went to a tavern.

Gold-Tressed Detroit Maid Jilts Frogman

Dover, England (AP)—Gold-haired Mary Margaret Revell, 26-year-old long-distance swimmer from Detroit, Mich., Wednesday broke off her engagement to Simon Paterson, 21, an English professional frogman.

Miss Revell said: "I have returned the ring. I found that romance and swimming don't mix. Our plan to swim Lake Geneva together has been shelved."

Miss Revell has tried unsuccessfully three times to swim the English Channel. Paterson, who lives in Egham, Surrey, last year became the first Englishman to swim the channel under water. The couple met while training and announced their engagement exactly a year ago.

"He wanted me to give up swimming but I cannot do that," Miss Revell said.

Ship That Hit Trestle In Bay Still At Large

Norfolk, Va. (AP)—Contractors of the Chesapeake Bay bridge-tunnel are looking for a "hit and run" ship that rammed a trestle, causing more than $50,000 in damages. They have offered a reward of $1,000.

So far an exhaustive investigation has failed to turn up the ship that hit the bridge in early August.

An attorney for the contractors said the mystery ship hit trestle "C" two miles north of the Baltimore ship channel between Aug. 1 and Aug. 5.

The $200 million bay facility, linking the Virginia mainland and the eastern shore, is to be opened to traffic in 1964.

World Atom Agency Happy Tests Banned

Vienna (AP)—The East-West International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) announced Wednesday its deep satisfaction over the signing of the limited test ban treaty.
